PETITION RULING FACES APPEAL

State Will Seek High Court Test

. . . OF INCOME TAX ISSUE

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann announced Wednesday the Lancaster District Court order placing the anti-income tax amendment on the Nov. 5 ballot will be appealed to the State Supreme Court.

Tiemann made the expected appeal announcement during a joint news conference with Secretary of State Frank Marsh and Attorney General Clarence Meyer.

Tiemann said "the case must be appealed because it leaves open substantial questions concerning the proper boundary lines between the citizen's right of representative government and his right to petition."

'Must Decide'

"The Supreme Court must decide these questions," he added.

Earlier in the afternoon, Meyer had asked the Supreme Court to hear the appeal immediately, but was informed the court could not decide whether to expedite the matter until a formal appeal is filed.

However, Meyer was informed the court normally expedites cases "of high import."

This Year

Tiemann said he feels the "appeal must be made quickly because the citizens should be permitted to vote on the proposed amendment this year (Nov. 5) rather than wait until 1970 if the Supreme Court decides the amendment should be on the ballot."

Earlier this week, District Judge William C. Hastings overturned Marsh's July 26 finding that the amendment petition contained insufficient valid signatures, and ordered the issue on the November ballot.

Marsh said the mechanical process of preparing the ballot for the proposed amendment is underway so there would be no obstacle to a November vote if the Supreme Court affirms the lower court's decision.

In his advocacy of a state income tax, Tiemann stoutly defended Nebraska's representative form of government.

Avoid Re-Election

"The people of the state have elected senators to consider in a thoughtful, knowledgeable manner proposed legislation and to accept or reject such legislation," he said. "If citizens are unhappy with the actions of their elected officials, they can avoid re-electing them."

"The sales and income tax bill, adopted by the Legislature last session, had as detailed and penetrating review as any piece of legislation which has passed through any Nebraska legislature," he said in noting the bill was "overwhelmingly passed" and later received judicial approval of the Supreme Court.

Tiemann also warned against the overuse of the initiative or referendum petition.

Fears Disenchantment

"If it becomes too easy to put any proposition on the ballot by petition, I fear the great bulk of citizens will become irritated and disenchanted with the petition process. This right is to precious to subject it to erosion and destruction."

"Likewise, the representative form of government, which is the basis for law and order in our state and nation, is too basic a right to permit its replacement by petition rights which are unbounded," he said.

Tiemann said the case "involves not simply the issue whether we shall vote on the income tax in November, but rather it faces squarely the question of whether the statutory limits of the petition process shall continue to exist and serve as boundary lines between the people's right of elected representative government and petition government."

'Too Important'

"These questions are too important not to be tested in the highest court of the state," he added.

Late Wednesday the Attorney General's office reported a motion for rehearing on the case was rejected by Judge Hastings and a notice of appeal filed.

These formal steps in the lower court expedited the groundwork for the formal filing of an appeal with the Supreme Court, which could come Thursday.

SENATE VOTE IS 70 TO 17 . . .

Sale Of Long Guns By Mail Is Banned

Washington (AP) — The Senate passed, 70 to 17, Wednesday a bill to ban interstate mail order sales of rifles and shotguns. It rejected proposals for firearms registration and the licensing of owners.

The bill is similar to a measure passed by the House July 24. A Senate-House conference committee is expected to have little difficulty agreeing on a final draft.

Johnson Rebuffed

The Senate rejected a series of moves to write in some form of licensing and registration of firearms. Johnson had strongly urged Congress to include such a provision.

The measure extends to rifles and shotguns the ban on interstate mail order sales provided for handguns in the omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act passed by Congress earlier in the year.

Senate approval of the bill marked a sharp reversal of the position it took last May 5 on a crime bill amendment offered by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. His proposal to prohibit mail order sales of long guns was rejected then 53 to 29.

Ammo Sales Out

The Senate bill not only outlaws mail order sales of all firearms but also of ammunition for shotguns, rifles, handguns and other destructive devices.

It also prohibits over-the-counter sales of firearms to nonresidents of a state. However, a person in one state may make a purchase in an adjoining state if this is legally permissible in both states.

A buyer also must submit an affidavit of eligibility and the seller may not make delivery for seven days in order to give police an opportunity to object.

A similar affidavit and presale notice procedure would apply to mail order sales within a state.

Under 18

Sales of rifles and shotguns to persons under 18 years of age would be banned. The anticrime legislation passed earlier bars sales only of handguns to persons under 21.

All firearms dealers, manufacturers and importers would have to be federaly licensed under standards set out in the measure.

In general, any person other than a licensee would be prohibited from transporting or receiving in his state of residence any firearms purchased or otherwise obtained by him outside that state.

Penalties

Penalties for violations range up to 10 years' imprisonment and $10,000 fines.

The controls on interstate traffic are intended to assist the states in making their own firearms regulations effective — and serve as an inducement to them to enact tighter restrictions on sales.

In koncking down efforts to tie in a registration and licensing provision, the Senate first defeated 55 to 31 an amendment by Sen. Joseph Tydings of Maryland. It would have required the registration of all guns and the licensing of their owners.

Kennedy Votes

Sen. Edward Kenedy came into the Senate to vote for Tydings' amendment, his first apearance there since his brother was slain last June. He entered near the end of the debate on Tydings' proposal but took no part in it, sitting with his chin in his hand.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., leading the opponents, said the measure would be ineffective in preventing crime. He said it would put the federal government into local police work on a scale unprecedented since Prohibition days.

He and others said criminals would not register their weapons or take out licenses while law-abiding citizens would be burdened and harased. The opponents argued enforcement would create a police state.

Nebraska Republican Sens. Carl Curtis and Hruska voted with the majority Wednesday as the Senate passed, on a 70-17 vote, the gun-control bill.

Earlier the Nebraskans also voted with the majority as the Senate turned down 55-31 the gun registration and licensing amendment of Tydings.

Revenue Sharing, Aid Repair Urged To Solve City Dilemma

Washington (AP) —Federal revenue sharing with cities and a major overhaul of the federal grant system were urged Wednesday to help solve the urban dilemma of mushrooming needs and shrinking resources.

The congressionally created Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations said in a two-volume report that reforms are essential to avoid "serious disruption of the American federal system."

The plight of urban centers beset by poverty, unrest and social change is aggravated by financial distress caused by a static or declining tax base, the bipartisan commission said.

It described the federal aid system as "grant piled upon grant from an annual total of $3 billion in 1956 to . . . about $20 billion now."

The report also calls for "general support payments" from the U.S. treasury.

This plan, the commission said, would consist of "revenue sharing on a per capita basis . . . to allow states and localities to devise their own programs and set their own priorities to help solve their own unique and most crucial problems."

The commission included findings from financial surveys of 37 metropolitan areas. These, it said, showed that cities are becoming overburdened with "high cost citizens" — chiefly wefare cases — as compared with the suburbs, and carrying a disproportionately heavy tax load.

Higher Than Suburb

"Central city local taxes, measured against personal income, average more than one-third higher than suburban taxes," the commission found.

Yet, it said, the central cities cannot keep up with the cost of educating underprivileged children.

The suburbs pay $135 more per child than the cities for schooling across the nation, the report showed, while the central cities are spending $100 more per capita for police, fire, sanitation and other nonschool purposes than the suburbs.

Explosion Claims Columbus Worker

Columbus (UPI) — A compressed air tank exploded Wednesday morning at the Becton-Dickinson Manufacturing Plant injuring a Columbus man fatally.

Columbus police identified the victim as John D. Richard, 20, who died at a Columbus hospital after receiving face and chest injuries in the explosion.

Police said the tank was being filled with compressed air and a chemical mixture.

Richard was rushed to the hospital by the Columbus rescue squad.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Richard of Albion.

Third Citian Charged With Murdering Wife

Grand Island (AP) — First degree murder charges were filed here Wednesday against Thomas F. Davis in connection with the Aug. 14 death of his wife, Phyllis, 29.

The charges were filed after a Hall County coroner's jury, which had been meeting since Aug. 20. The jury had been called by Hall County Atty. Robert Paulick, who also acts as coroner.

In its formal statement, the jury said Mrs. Davis "died the result of a felonious act at the hands of Thomas F. Davis and person or persons unknown."

Mrs. Davis was found dead in her car at a T-intersection on a county road east of Grand Island. The State Patrol had listed her death as resulting from a traffic accident.

The Patrol's report said the car had gone off the road and hit an embankment with the impact throwing a meat-cutting machine from the rear of the vehicle and striking Mrs. Davis in the head.

Davis, 32, late Wednesday was ordered held without bond by County Judge Edward Dixon.

Paulick declined to discuss the case with reporters, nor would he say if others were being sought.

The Davises, who were married in St. Paul, in May, 1958, had seven children.

Prior to coming to Grand Island seven years ago, the Davises lived in Lincoln.

The coroner's jury met a total of six times. More than 40 persons were called in to testify. These include law enforcement officers, insurance agents and acquaintances of Mrs. Davis.

Desert King Buys 18 Sauna Stoves

Helsinki (UPI) — A Finnish firm, with a sales pitch not unlike the one used to sell refrigerators to Eskimos, has sold 18 sauna stoves to King Hassan II of Morocco.

As if the African heat were not warm enough, the king ordered the 18 electric sauna stoves and one prefabricated log sauna for his palace in Morocco.

Reds Claim Right To Stop 'Nazism'

Moscow (UPI) — The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said Wednesday the Soviet Union has the right under international agreements to take "necessary effective measures" to stop the alleged revival of militarism and Nazism in West Germany.

The warning came in a commentary by Vladlen Kuznetsov. It did not specify the "necessary effective measures" the Russians were prepared to take.

The Soviet Union has more than 20 divisions — around 250,00 men — poised along West Germany's borders with East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

(In Washington Tuesday, the U.S. State Department issued a special statement saying any invasion of West Germany would bring "an immediate allied response" under the North Atlantic Treaty. Britain Wednesday joined the United States in a firm hands-off-Germany warning to Moscow.)

Kuznetsov said the Soviet Union had the right under the United Nations Charter and the Potsdam agreements 'to prevent the revival of German militarism and Nazism."

"The Soviet Union is ready together with other peace-loving states to take, if the need arises, the necessary effective measures to curb the dangerous activities of neo-Nazism and militarism," he said.

He said the West German government could not "question the obligations and rights of the powers of the anti-Hitler coalition bearing responsibility for preventing the revival of German militarism."

(The United States and Britain said no such rights of intervention by an outside power exist.)

The Soviet Union had at least 20 divisions in East Germany before the Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia on Aug. 20. During the occupation of Czechoslovakia, a large number of divisions moved onto the Czechoslovakian border with West Germany for an indefinite period.

Sales Tax Attack Likely If Income Levy Is Banned

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Organized labor will almost certainly circulate initiative petitions to constitutionally bar the state from levying a general sales tax if Nebraska voters ban the state income tax this November.

"I think there is no question about it," State AFL-CIO President Richard Nisley of Omaha said Wednesday.

"I cannot speak for our state executive board which would make the decision. But I known damn well that's what we would do.

Grossly Unfair

"We have no other choice. The sales tax by itself would be grossly unfair."

The sales tax issue would be placed before the electorate in 1970.

Thus, state government may be faced with a constitutional ban on all three major forms of taxation. The state is already barred from the property tax field by a constitutional amendment adopted in 1966.

35 Lift Burden

If the income tax issue goes to a vote in two months, and if the tax is repealed and prohibited in the future, the burden for supporting state government would shift heavily to the general sales tax.

"We accepted the sales tax in combination with the income tax," Nisley noted.

"And it took some major educational procedures to get our people to understand that the combination was fair. But we were able to buy this package only because of the income tax, including its corporate tax features."

'Only Thing'

The "only thing" the AFL-CIO could do "to protect our members" would be to launch an attack on the sales tax if the income tax provisions are ripped from the combination system, Nisley said.

"I certainly hope it doesn't come to that," he noted. "I hope it doesn't work out that way."

The AFL-CIO will oppose the income tax amendment at the general election if it is permitted to reach the ballot, Nisley said.

That matter will be discussed at the state convention convening in Lincoln next Monday, he noted.

Hanoi Still Asks For Bomb Halt

By ANTHONY LEWIS

Paris — The North Vietnamese, using somewhat different language, said Wednesday that a halt in American bombing would "open the way for movement toward a peaceful solution to the Vietnam problem."

American sources saw this phraseology as a new way of saying that the Paris talks will get into substantive issues after a total bombing cessation. They saw no sign of Hanoi giving the assurances of mutual de-escalation required by President Johnson to stop the bombing.

"There was no movement," Cyrus Vance told reporters after Wednesday's session of the talks, the 22nd since they began last May. Vance headed the American delegation in the absence of W. Averell Harriman, who is on personal business in the Unites States.

Formal Remarks

Vance concluded his formal remarks across the conference table Wednesday by saying:

"As for ending the remaining bombing of North Vietnam, we ask that you give us reason to believe that you intend seriously to join with us in de-escalating the fighting and moving seriously toward peace."

That was a paraphrase of a sentence in President Johnson's speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Detroit Aug. 19.

Advice Rejected

In that speech the President definitively rejected advice from many aides that he stop the bombing on the basis of a summer lull in the fighting. But he did keep open the possibility of a future halt without a formal Hanoi pledge by saying he would need only "good reason to believe" in an intention to de-escalate.

Wednesday's new Hanoi formulation seemed to build on one passage in a speech Sept. 2 by North Vietnam's premier, Pham Van Dong. He said a bombing halt would "have a positive effect on the seeking step by step of a political settlement for the Vietnam problem."

Xuan Thuy, chief Hanoi delegate, Wednesday reiterated the familiar demand for an unconditional cessation. He added that this would be "a first step opening the way to move toward a peaceful solution on the basis of respect for the fundamental rights of the Vietnamese people."

Varied Forms

commission. As a newcomer to the body, Agnew did not participate in drafting the recommendations.

The study calls for a consolidation of the more than 400 separately authorized types of federal grant which, the commission said, exhibit "tremendous variety and inconsistency" in the allocation of funds and the formulas for matching state contributions.

The report envisages growth of the federal grant-in-aid system and does not oppose it as many foes of "big government" do, but prescribes a less complex system, and one having fewer federal strings on use of the funds.

State Control

"If the states lose control over the metropolitan problem they lose the major responsibility for domestic government in the Unites States and in turn surrender any really significant role in the American federal system," the commission declared.

It proposes a reform system of "categorical" grants-in-aid "to stimulate and support programs in specific areas of national interest" such as air and water pollution abatement.

There should also be "block grants," created by consolidating existing categories of aid, to give states and localities greater flexibility in meeting their needs in such broad fields as health, education and welfare, the commission said.

Tap Tax Mine

It called on the states to tap more fully their own tax resources. The studies indicated that an additional $21.4 billion could be gleaned from state and local sources.

"Every state is going to need both a strong sales tax and a strong income tax," the commission said.

Numerous other proposals were made, aimed at strengthening state and local government by such actions as removing restrictions on the authority of governors, reducing the large number of elected officials, and creating "sub-units" of city government to improve contact between the citizens and city hall.

The second volume of the report includes detailed studies of financial problems of 12 metropolitan areas, Atlanta, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Houston, Jersey City, the Los Angeles-Long Beach area, Louisville, Milwaukee, San Francisco-Oakland, and the Paterson-Clifton-Passaic area of New Jersey.

Infantry, Tanks Aim To Blunt N. Viet Push Across Border

Saigon (AP) — Braving mortar and machine-gun fire, U.S. infantrymen and tanks pushed to the southern edge of the demilitarized zone to blunt a threatened enemy offensive across the zone, a military spokesman said Thursday.

If the enemy command follows its practice of the past two years, the zone between North and South Vietnam will see heavy fighting later this month and in October as the enemy tries to get the upper hand before the monsoon season reaches its peak in November.

Pushing to within a mile of the southern edge of the zone Wednesday, about 200 troops from the 1st Brigade of the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division came under heavy enemy fire.

Above Anchor

The American tanks blasted enemy positions with 90mm tanks and after about two hours of fighting, 29 North Vietnamese soldiers were found dead. U.S. losses were only three wounded, U.S. headquarters said. The fighting centered one mile above the northernmost outpost of the western anchor of the McNamara Wall stretching from the coast 11 miles inland.

U.S. military sources said three North Vietnamese divisions totaling perhaps as many as 30,000 soldiers are concentrated along the 17th parallel frontier.

American planes are stepping up their raids along the DMZ and just inside North Vietnam in an effort to ease the pressure on U.S. infantrymen and Marines sweeping the frontier.

Waves of U.S. B52 bombers have been trying to blunt this expected thrust by blanketing the DMZ with tons of explosives, and periodically venturing into North Vietnam above the six-mile-wide zone.

20,000 In August

The sources estimated that 20,000 North Vietnamese soldiers infiltrated South Vietnam during August, across the DMZ or down the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos and Cambodia.

This is a drop from the previous month's estimate of 30,000 infiltrators, but much higher than the monthly average of 7,000 a year ago.

In its weekly report on battle statistics Wednesday, the South Vietnamese government said 2,484 enemy soldiers were killed last week compared to 1,664 the week before. Government casualties were 376 killed and 1,269 wounded, also slightly higher than the previous week.

The U.S. mission reported Wednesday that terrorism directed at South Vietnamese refugee camps has become standard enemy policy.

The mission said Viet Cong terrorists killed 160 refugees, wounded 259, abducted 16 and burned 1,689 homes in resettlement areas in July and August.

Soviet Spaceship's Mission Mystery

© New York Times Service

Moscow — Mystery developed here about the mission of a Soviet spaceship reported by a British scientist, Sir Bernard Lovell, to have passed within 1,000 miles of the moon early Wednesday.

Sir Bernard, director of the Jodrell Bank Space Research Center, speculated that the spacecraft, Zond 5, had circled the moon and was returning to earth.

The British report was termed a "canard" by a spokesman of the Soviet foreign ministry. "This report does not correspond to reality," he said.

Unclear

The spokesman's statement, apparently on instructions of the Academy of Sciences' space section, was unclear about what was being denied — the flight of the spacecraft near the moon or the British scientist's speculation that it was returning to earth.

Observers here believed it more likely that the denial related to the craft's return toward earth.

A circumlunar flight and return to earth is a difficult mission that the Russians have been preparing as a forerunner to a manned landing on the moon.

The foreign ministry statement suggested that Zond 5 either had not been intended to circle the moon and return to earth or that it had failed in executing the precise maneuver and was continuing deep into space.

Zond 4, launched last March, was reported by some Western space sources to have circled the moon successfully but then to have crashed on its return to earth.

Zond 3 Photographer

Zond 3, launched in July, 1965, photographed the moon and took scientific measurements while passing near the satellite before going into orbit around the sun. Another Zond was launched in April, 1964, toward Venus and the other the following November toward Mars.

A successful circumlunar mission would be a feather in the caps of Soviet space scientists, but they prefer that it be successful before they announce it.

U.S. space officials react alertly to Soviet flights toward the moon because of uncertainty whether the Russians are actively in a race to beat U.S. astronauts to the moon.

The U.S still is aiming at a landing by 1970. The Russians have not disclosed a target date for their first manned moon flight.

British Deficit Cut

London (UPI) —The Board of Trade announced Britain's balance of trade deficit was cut by $122.4 million during August. The report said increased exports, particularly to North America, and a drop in imports cut the balance of trade deficit to $72 million compared to July's figure of $194.4 million.

Two Fires Deliberately Set In Daugherty Home

. . . Says Box Butte Attorney Probing Alliance Death

Nebraska News

Alliance (AP) — The investigation into the death of a rural Alliance man whose body was found in the burned-out bedroom of his home last Friday is proceeding on the assumption that he was murdered, according to Box Butte County Attorney Laurice Margheim.

Margheim said Wednesday that two fires were deliberately set in the farm home northwest of here of James W. Daugherty.

Margheim said it is impossible to say whether any foul play was involved in the actual death of Daugherty, but that fires were set in the basement and ground floor bedroom where the body was found.

The fires both smothered themselves out because of the lack of ventilation, Margheim said. A number of items taken from the house have been sent to the FBI laboratory in Washington, D.C., for analysis, he said.

"It is hoped that the results of those tests will shed some light on the cause of death," Margheim said.

Autopsy Held

Margheim said an autopsy completed the night the body was found led the pathologist to believe the man had died some three or four days earlier.

"Due to the state of decomposition and the burning, it was impossible to determine the cause of death without additional laboratory tests," Margheim said.

Daugherty was buried Monday.

The 44-year-old railroader and farmer lived alone following a divorce. His body was discovered by relatives who came for a visit and broke into the house after knocking and getting no response.

Daugherty had lived in Box Butte County since the age of six and has a brother, sisters and his mother living in the county.

The case is being investigated under the direction of Sheriff Freddie Marsh. The state fire marshal's office has been involved in the case.

Dress Made Of Flag Brings Arrest For 2

Omaha (AP) — Acting on a tip from the FBI, Omaha police confiscated a dress made from an American flag and displayed at a gift and curiosity shop here.

The store's co-owners were arrested on a misdemeanor charge.

Charges of desecrating the flag were filed Wednesday against Wade S. Wright, 23, and Roger W. DuRand, 25. They were released on $100 bond to appear Oct. 16 in Municipal Court.

Assistant City Attorney Gary P. Bucchino said the maximum penalty under state law is a $100 fine, 30 days in jail or both.

The flag dress was displayed on a mannequin at The Farthest Outpost.

Made By Girl

Wright said the dress "was made by a local girl who has since left. I understand she is in Kansas."

"My first reaction was, 'Is it legal?' She assured us that it was. I wouldn't have handled it had I thought that it was a real United States flag."

DuRand said the woman told them the dress was legal because it was made from a flag with 48 stars "and that was no longer the official symbol of the United States."

Eugene Leahy, deputy Douglas County attorney, said, however, that a 48-star flag still is an official symbol of the nation.

Niobrara Scenic Plan Opposed By Ranchers

. . . According To Rep. Martin

Washington (AP) — Ranchers of the Niobrara Valley in northern and western Nebraska don't want the Niobrara River included among those to be studied for possible inclusion in a national scenic rivers system, Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., said Wednesday.

"Our people did not like it,' Martin said of the original House bill, which listed the Niobrara among rivers to be considered for a system of rivers to be kept in their natural state.

An amendment sponsored by Martin and adopted by the House last week knocked the Niobrara out of the bill.

The Niobrara, which flows more than 200 miles across Nebraska through ranch and cattle country, looks now as it did 100 years ago and likely will look the same in another 100 years, Martin said.

'Feared Federal Control'

Study of the river for possible inclusion in the scenic rivers system might have led to federal acquisition of land on the banks of the river, disrupting ranching operations, he said.

The bill passed by the House would designate six rivers as scenic rivers and permit the federal government to move to preserve them in their present state. More than 20 other rivers would be studied for possible later inclusion in the system.

The Senate has passed a different bill on the subject.

Meanwhile, Senate and House confers agreed Wednesday on legislation to establish a national system of wild and scenic rivers.

All or parts of eight rivers were designated for immediate inclusion in the system.

'Eyes On Nebraska' Award Goes To Meyer

Attorney General Clarence A. H. Meyer Wednesday was named to receive the "Eyes on Nebraska" award.

Given by the Nebraska Optometric Association, Meyer was cited for his outstanding "contributions to law enforcement and guidance in an era when law and order are being severely tested across the land."

Dr. Wm. Higgins of Lincoln, president of the association, said "it is worthy of note that a man of Meyer's ability head the Governor's Commission on Crime and has been sought out by presidential candidate Richard Nixon to give Nixon advice on crime and law enforcement."

CLARENCE MEYER

Cited For Guidance

Dr. Higgins said "one of the highest honors that can be given to a man holding Meyer's job came to him in 1965 when the National Association of Attorney Generals cited him as the outstanding state attorney general in the United States.

He became an assistant attorney general in 1949 and was elected attorney general in 1960 and has been re-elected ever since. For more than 10 years, he has "voluntarily" served as an instructor for various law enforcement groups in the state and has been a visiting lecturer at several law colleges in the United States.

JFK Expected To Get Needed 650 Enrollment

Wahoo (AP) — John F. Kennedy College President Ted Dillow announced Wednesday that the school apparently will enroll the 650 students required to provide the necessary break-even operational budget for the fall semester.

Dillow said enrollment closed Tuesday with 644 full time and 15 part time students enrolled. And he said additional enrollment is anticipated this weekend.

The 650-student minimum enrollment was set last summer while the school was facing a financial dilemma that threatened to close the college.

Man, 29, Kills Wife, Self In Iowa Tavern

Sioux City, Iowa (AP) — Two persons were shot to death here Tuesday night when police said a man entered a tavern, fired six shots at his estranged wife and then reloaded a .22 caliber revolver and turned it on himself.

The dead couple were identified as Connie Rae Gross, 24, who was employed at the Mainliner Tavern where the incident occurred, and Richard R. Gross, 29, of Phoenix, Ariz.

Bystander Hurt

A patron who entered the establishment during the shootings, identified only as Valerie Ratliff, 40, received a superficial wound in the right leg from one of the shots, police said.

Detective Earl Schmidt and Police Chief Russell H. White, who investigated the double shooting, said they found nine spent cartridges. Witnesses told them six were fired at Mrs. Gross and one each were fired at the gunman and the Ratliffe woman. The ninth was unaccounted for.

They said some customers in the tavern thought the incident was a joke until they saw Mrs. Gross topple from a stool where she was sitting while off duty.

Mrs. Gross was reported in the process of divorcing her husband.

PSC Requests $3,263,776 For Seven Projects

Peru (AP) — Peru State College has requested $3,263,776 for capital construction during the next biennium.

The college said the request had been approved by the State Normal Board at its last meeting.

Peru President Neal S. Goman said seven projects would be covered by the money.

These include remodeling housing facilities to meet safety regulations, renovation of Hoyt Science Hall, construction of a new health and physical education building and student health center, renovation of the education building, addition to the library ,, installation of the first phase of an air-conditioning system and development of outdoor physical education facilities.

$10,000 Damage In Marquette Lumber Co. Fire

Marquette (AP) — An early morning fire did an estimated $10,000 damage to the Co-Op Lumber Co. hardware showroom here Wednesday, according to Manager Ervin Nissen.

Nissen said the showroom suffered considerable damage after the fire apparently started in a basement furnace about 6:15 a.m. and spread to a wall.

Volunteer fire department units from Aurora and Marquette battled the blaze for about two hours, reports said.

POLICE HUNT FOR ANTEATER MAY BE A WILD GOOSE CHASE

Law enforcement authorities are occasionally called upon to render public service by locating missing dogs and cats and other household pets. But searching for an anteater may be a "first" for the Lincoln Police Department.

Police said Wednesday they received a telephone call from a "Chicago woman" who said she had left a South American anteater in her auto at the Lincoln airport.

An officer was detailed to the airport to search for the animal, but the anteater couldn't be found.

Because of the unusual circumstances surrounding the incident, police said they were investigating the phone call.

Oddly enough, an anteater was found earlier in the week by the Seward Police Department. The animal was given to Concordia College after an unsuccessful search for the owner.

Ian Smith's Party In Rhodesia Gets Confidence Vote

Gatooma, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian Front Wednesday received a solid confidence vote when party candidate Albert Mells was voted into the vacant Gatooma parliamentary seat.

The by-election demonstrated complete lack of support for the breakaway extremist right-wing Rhodesia National Party in its first try for Parliament.

RNP candidate Chris Phillips got only 65 votes.

Summary Of Conditions

The main surface of a low will be moving to northeastern Wisconsin by noon Thursday. At the same time, a new low will be into extreme western Wyoming with a Pacific cold front extending at that time from low into central California. An air mass over the region will be slowly drying out but already it is relatively dry in the western half of Nebraska.

Skies will be fair to partly cloudy over the region Thursday and temperatures will be warmer through all of western Iowa and eastern Nebraska and locally warmer in western Nebraska. Thursday night skies will be variably cloudy over much of the region with the chance of scattered showers or light rain in the western portion of Nebraska beginning later at night and spreading into central Nebraska Friday and possibly eastern Nebraska Friday night. Temperatures are expected to be cool or turning cooler in central and western Nebraska Friday.

EVENTS IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Once again, City Councilman Bill Davidson has tossed the fat into the fire. This is all well and good because it is a part of being a member of the City Council. Such membership carries a responsibility to face the problems of the city with diligence and this means you don't take the easy way out.

Davidson has put the spotlight again on an old problem at City Hall — zoning. This is not a problem related to any individual, but rather, to the simple fact that zoning is an important and highly complicated activity of government.

The issue this time centers around a request by Aguilar Bros. Plumbing & Heating Co. to change the zoning on land on the east side of 70th between Havelock Ave. and Platte from G local business to H-2 highway commercial.

Aguilar cannot operate as a contractor in the local business area at 70th and Havelock. His contracting operations would require the highway commercial he seeks. But to let Aguilar have highway commercial would open the area to all kinds of contracting and storage operations, some of which would be inappropriate for the area.

To give the City Council another choice, Davidson is suggesting another zoning category that would more closely fit the unique aspects of the Aguilar operation.

This is a combination retail and contracting operation. Aguilar and some others like him are a sort of hybrid operation. They have showrooms from which customers can select the merchandise they want installed in their home or business building.

From this same showroom, they may also do some strictly retail business, such as a fellow coming in to buy a new faucet, toilet seat or shower stall to put in his home.

Because of the retail business he does and the promotional value of his location, Aguilar wants to locate on an arterial street and in a well traveled area. Maybe it is right that he should be located at 70th and Havelock and maybe the local business zoning there is wrong but it is a tough question to settle.

We compliment Davidson on showing the interest he does in this and other such problems and he is to be commended as a diligent member of the City Council. We take issue with him, however, in two regards.

One, he maintains that his council colleagues, by denying certain zoning requests that come along, are "constantly trying to deter progress." This simply is not the fact.

Some members of the council simply have a different view of zoning than Davidson has, which brings us to our second point of disagreement with him. It does seem that Davidson has less regard than he should for the principles of good zoning, constantly subjecting them to the interest of every business request that comes along.

The zoning law and the zoning decisions that are made are not always right, but neither are all the business proposals that are made. If some members of the council are too firm in their support of zoning laws, Davidson and a few other members of the council are too firm in their automatic support of the many requested changes that come along.

Aguilar's deal looks like a good one all by itself but it can't be considered all by itself. There are a host of operations just like Aguilar's in other trades and professions.

There are electrical, hardware and floor covering operators that are the same kind of retail-contract hybrid. There are interior decorators on a broad scale that are very close to the same thing.

But their retail operations are not the kind that complement such standard retailing as a grocery or drug store, department store, etc. We are not prepared to say Davidson is wrong in this case but the matter is not so simple as he would have you believe.

'I Have A Weapon, Too'

A Humanitarian Bows Out

In deference to his health, Otto Liebers has been replaced as president of the Salt Valley Watershed District. He remains as president emeritus of the organization. But more than that, he remains a man who understands the purpose of life and who has served that purpose all of his adult years.

Otto Liebers is a product of a rural environment and has a keen appreciation of the water, soil and air that have been man's favor to possess. Thus, he has always understood the essentiality of building up and preserving these precious natural resources, rather than dissipating them through ignorance or greed.

His concern has been for his fellow man, for the generations that are to follow, so that they might share in the abundance of nature that has blessed those who came before. And he has clearly seen the responsibility of mankind to take the raw materials of nature and mold them into an effective, efficient and totally constructive tool for the sake of a promising future.

He has loved and respected the soil, the water, the trees, the flora and fauna of the countryside. As in his pioneering work with the Salt Valley conservation group, he has devoted his time, talents and his personal resources to countless conservation endeavors.

He has made an impact upon society that will be of lasting benefit and has done so without rancor or personal reward. Otto Liebers has devoted his life to the cause of a better way of life for others and no greater tribute than that can a man earn. Hopefull, his health will permit a resumption of his many activities but his contribution to humanity has long ago won him the gratitude of countless thousands.

Let's Stop Helping Wallace

The rising frustration of Americans with the state of the union is apparently the cause of the rise in popularity of George Wallace.

And it is this rise in popularity that is causing an increase of frustration among Wallace's opponents — which include, the latest polls say, about 81 per cent of all of us.

The question is: What can we (the 81 per cent) do about the threat of George Wallace?

It is our suggestion that what we have done so far has been wrong. We boo him—and he is able to point to the hecklers and promise his audience he'll silence them. We carry signs—and trouble starts, quickening the fears of those who gathered to hear him. We conduct, as happened at Grand Island, silent vigils—and thus attract more attention than such occasions deserved.

Those who boo Wallace, who heckle him and who jeer back at him are playing into his hands. And editorial writers who call attention to his racism are also playing into his hands. We're making it too easy for him. Wallace never has to mention race; we do it for him. Which is what he wants.

If we are serious about wanting to cut the influence of George Wallace, we are going to have to wise up. The press can't ignore him, of course, especially if every time he speaks, someone shows up who might start a riot. But everyone else can. Instead of shouting at him, why don't we try ignoring him? Let's stop making his case for him.

Yugoslavia Keeps Guard Up

WASHINGTON — "We will be another Vietnam if it comes down to that."

This is what is being said in Belgrade with quiet resolution by those who see the shadow of Soviet intervention in Yugoslavia still hanging heavy on the eastern horizon. The fear of an invasion similar to the Russian take-over in Prague is a deep undercurrent in the Yugoslav capital, according to intelligence reports.

Western sources are hopeful this fear is exaggerated. No overt signs of troop movements or border concentrations have been detected. But in view of the heavy hand the Soviet military high command appears to be exercising, the possibility of another Prague cannot be ruled out. Marshal Tito flew to the Czech capital to give Alexander Dubcek all possible support. And, whereas Rumania is now playing it cool after initial support for Prague's liberalized communism, stern criticism continues from Belgrade.

Back of the threat of another Vietnam is the Yugoslav determination to resist a take-over by fighting. During World War II, Yugoslav partisans mastered the techniques of guerrilla warfare against the Nazis and their internal allies. Showing extraordinary courage and stamina with Tito as their leader, they made the Nazis pay dearly for the occupation. The men who fought that guerrilla war are now saying the Russians would meet the same kind of resistance if they moved into Yugoslavia.

The Yugoslavs were the first to break with the Cominform control exercised by Moscow. They shattered the concept of monolithic communism 20 years ago when Stalin's authoritarian rule extended over all the satellites.

That 20 years later, long after Stalin's death and with the presumed thaw in the cold war, Yugoslavia should fear a Soviet invasion is a measure of the devastating effect of the tragedy of Prague. The growing fear is that the Russian military now having the whip hand will stop at nothing to consolidate the military boundaries of the Soviet empire.

In November of 1949 this reporter was the first Western journalist to interview Tito after the historic break with Moscow. In his huge walnut-paneled office in his private villa on the outskirts of Belgrade, he radiated quiet confidence. It is interesting in the light of what is now happening to look back on that interview. Tito expressed firm conviction that the Soviets would not use military force to destroy a government that had refused to submit to dictation by Moscow as he had.

"Russia's position before the world," Tito told me, "would prevent her taking any such step. It would put the Soviet Union in the position of an aggressor and that is a role she cannot afford.

"Of course, border incidents will continue. They probably will even be stepped up. But that doesn't cause us too much concern. Yes, we have good nerves here. We have had a great deal of experience to harden our nerves in recent years."

Stalin did everything he could short of war to bring down Tito. Border incidents, economic blockade, a constant barrage of vilification and abuse — these were the weapons the old dictator turned against Belgrade. "Fascist" was one of the terms of abuse hurled at Tito and his regime. The effect, Tito said in the interview, had been just the opposite of what Moscow intended. The Yugoslavs were amazed that such vilification could be used by a once friendly government.

The wise policy of the Truman administration contributed a lot to help the Yugoslavs keep their independence. Both military and economic aid bolstered a country ravaged by long years of war. Nevertheless, with economic ties with Moscow severed, the going was rough and for most Yugoslavs existence was down to bedrock. For Washington a bonus came with Tito's action closing the Yugoslav-Greek border following his break with the Soviets. This meant an end to the movement of infiltrators reinforcing the communist rebels in Greece. While the net effect of this action has long been debated, many observers believe it was the key to ending the revolt with massive American aid and several thousand American advisors.

This time, if the worst should happen, there is little or nothing Washington could do. That is the candid word being passed onto Belgrade. The fact that we are in the midst of a presidential campaign with Vietnam and foreign policy a major issue makes any constructive step even more unlikely.

With Charles de Gaulle in his customary state of sulks, the precautionary measures that might be taken through NATO are excluded. There is talk of rotating the 35,000 American troops who were to be taken out of Germany, instead of simply removing them. There is talk, too, of moving up the NATO foreign ministers' meeting and holding it in New York or Washington. But these are gestures that can hardly be expected to impress Moscow's military command.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Today, as I write, it is a perfect September day. Not many days are so free of strong winds, heat or cold, dull gray or blazing sunlight. But today is what the poets write about, a quiet peaceful day that makes one want to linger outside for hours. There is a very slight breeze from the north, an azure sky with a dot and dash of billowing clouds overhead and a temperature in the low seventies. The sunlight floods the sky, yet does not feel unduly warm. Here and there overhead I see silver strands of webs floating with the slight drift of wind.

I used to call these cobwebs for lack of a better name but now I understand there is a specie of spider that travels by means of spinning a web and floating from one place to another on the wind.

A car went by and the dust lays low, lazy and quiet above the road. A young pheasant barely darted to cover in time. It was enjoying its dust bath at the side of the road and resented an intruder so big as a car interfering with its luxury. A flock of doves are gathered in the orchard, cooing quietly and pruning their feathers.

I like this slow and easy day. It's a day when the pup has decided to take a nap with the cat. Together they snooze under the lilac bush. If I were not busy, I would make room beside them and catch a quick cat-nap, too, forgetting my duties and the time of day. Personally a dog's life is nothing to be sneered at, especially today.

Perhaps I should go back a couple of days when a dog's life wouldn't have been so pleasant. Our young puppy chases crickets and grasshoppers when he meets them, pawing them gently as if trying to decide what makes them jump. This seemed to be a harmless pastime until he came upon a wasp darting about on the ground.

With a yip of surprise he jumped back, rubbed his nose on the ground and left the area of the wasp. He is now the Jimmy Durante of the dog world.

The last cutting of alfalfa is completed for the season. It is not drying very fast with so much dew in the mornings. When it is ready, The Farmer will have a neighbor bale it. The final cutting will not have a large number of bales. As for my way of thinking, one bale is too many when it comes to loading and unloading them. It is heavy work for the men.

☆ ☆ ☆

I usually think of the harvest moon as appearing in the month of October but the moons of September are lovely. Last week a crescent moon of bright orange hung in the sky, looking like an orange slice.

It made me think of the sugar-coated orange slice candy, chewy and delicious. At the moment I could have devoured a package of the candy before going to bed. It would certainly have made for sweet dreams.

DON MacLEAN

Barber Favorite Source For Political Information

WASHINGTON — Even today the work of Congress often is slowed by the sticky wheels of parliamentary technicalities. But, as bad as it is, things do not seem as difficult as they once were.

There was a time in 1889, for instance, when some members of the House were using silence to defeat the will of the majority. First they claimed a quorum was not present. Then, when the clerk called their names, they refused to answer, even though they remained in their seats.

Finally, Speaker Thomas B. Reed got around this device simply by directing the clerk to count as present everyone he saw in the chamber. One congressman rose to deny he was present! This was so ridiculous that even those on his side had to laugh and they were shamed into allowing the session to continue.

Slightly more than 7,000 different bills were introduced in Congress this year. Fortunately, fewer than 600 were passed. "And of these new laws," one critic observed, "at least 10 per cent were necessary."

Washington barber Harry Rich for years has conducted what he called "The Barbers' Poll for Presidential Candidates." He thinks his poll is very indicative of which way the country will go in November, because, as everyone is aware, barbers know more about politics than anyone else.

According to Mr. Rich, he has asked 2,000 barbers how they will vote and this is the result: 910 said they would vote for Nixon; 780 for Humphrey; 290 for Wallace. The remaining 20 barbers said they haven't made up their minds yet and will have to talk it over with some more with their customers.

Occasionally you read in the papers about a shipment of toxic chemicals which becomes derailed or something and endangers a whole town. We have come across an industry check-list of the various reasons toxic chemicals leak or explode:

"Poorly designed container; expands under heat; fork lift punctures container; struck by lightning; dropped; dented during handling; truck, plane or train collision; container leaks at seams; container opened accidentally; sabotage, vandalism or personnel error . . ."

Other than that, we guess, nothing can go wrong.

Czech Invasion Called 'Stupid Mistake' As West Germany Becomes Scapegoat

BUDAPEST — The Russians, having committed the stupidest mistake of their many years of diplomatic boners, have now decided to make West Germany the scapegoat. They have branded West German militarism as their reason for sending tanks rumbling into Czechoslovakia.

This time the Kremlin is being run by a committee-type government, so several heads may roll. Ever since the momentous decision of August 20, skilled diplomats in the West have been trying to figure out who tipped the balance inside the Kremlin for the Czech invasion.

They have concluded in the first place that it was a close vote by a margin of only one or two. Second, they have figured that it was a military-type decision. The Kremlin saw something in Czechoslovakia that was moving, and not knowing exactly what else to do, it fired.

Whatever may have been their degree of responsibility, however, there is no question but that Walter Ulbricht, the hard-boiled orthodox communist boss of East Germany, helped tip the scales for military action. He is also the man who sold Kremlin leaders on making West Germany the scapegoat.

At Bratislava where the Warsaw Pact leaders met August 3 to formalize an agreement with Czech leaders, Czech party leader Alexander Dubcek proposed that the final communique contain a reference to new forces in West Germany which sincerely desired peace.

Whereupon Ulbricht hit the ceiling. He delivered a harangue that if there were any forces in Germany desiring peace, they were represented by the German Communist Party. Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, Ulbricht said, did not represent a sincere German faction for peace. Ulbricht discounted Brandt's efforts to discourage the "revenchists" — those who seek revenge by wanting to take back the Sudetenland from Czechoslovakia and upper Silesia from Poland. Brandt's alleged peace efforts, Ulbricht said, were for the birds.

Ulbricht ignored, of course, the fact that the German Communist Party is infinitesimal and represents only a tiny fraction of the German electorate.

Ulbricht has kept hammering on Russian leaders, both before and after the invasion of Czechoslovakia, that West Germany is a grave menace. And this was one of the reasons which tipped the scales in the fatal decision. It has been adopted as the chief propaganda line ever since.

The Kremlin, of course, definitely had an obligation to Ulbricht. He has been the most orthodox of all communist leaders and the most loyal to Moscow. Furthermore, he has performed a minor economic miracle in East Germany by pulling the country up to the position of one of the leading industrial nations of Europe and the eighth industrial nation in the world.

The standard of living of the East German people is higher than in all of the communist countries which have strayed away from the strict party line, such as Yugoslavia. Finally, Ulbricht has made the Berlin Wall work. It has stopped the flow of skilled workers out of East Germany to West Germany, which prior to the wall was sapping the economic life of the nation.

However, Czechoslovakia presented a real menace. In the first place, Czechoslovakia was getting West German credits and increasing its trade with West Germans. Second, the flow of skilled workers out of East Germany was beginning to start again.

Czechoslovakia had removed the barbed wire entanglements along her West German borders and was permitted a free flow of people into and out of West Germany by either train or plane. All East Germans had to do was to visit Czechoslovakia, a communist country, and then travel back to West Germany. Thus the Berlin Wall was in danger of becoming an empty monument to a frustrated Ulbricht.

Now that the Russians have to justify their stupidest mistake since Stalin ordered the invasion of South Korea, they have fanned up all the "revenchist" statements made in the past by West Germans pointing to the danger that former Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss may come back once again to lead the German military.

Poll: Old, New Clash In Politics

By LOUIS HARRIS

Perhaps the deepest conflict in the 1968 presidential election is a difference in the old-style appeals of either major-party presidential candidate, on the one hand, and the outlook of new kinds of voters on the other.

LOUIS HARRIS

Deep Conflict

Fundamentally, Richard Nixon is striving to put together an Eisenhower-type majority, while Hubert Humphrey is seeking to keep together the dominant Democratic coalition of the past 36 years. Both coalitions were based on the traditional assumption that any majority in American politics consists of getting many diverse and even opposed sections of the electorate to join together to vote for a common candidate.

The problem for Humphrey in this age of more polarized politics is most acute. On the one hand, he must achieve over 90% of the Negro vote and also over 50% of the white labor-union vote to win.

More Uncompromising

Blacks have become more uncompromising than ever in their demands for equality. But the trade union rank and file has veered sharply over to the backlash side and has been giving George Wallace approximately 27% of its vote and Nixon another 27%, leaving Humphrey with barely 40%.

Nixon also has his problems. By taking a deliberate "Southern strategy" in the GOP convention, the Republican nominee sought to hold onto many of the Dixie Democrats who bolted over to Barry Goldwater in 1964 on the race issue. At the same time, Nixon hopes to roll up big majorities in the affluent suburbs and metropolitan areas of the big states in the North which went so heavily for Lyndon Johnson.

Yet on the key issues of this election, "law and order" and race, Southern voters and the Northern affluent are miles apart. Among white people, the well educated in the North feel most deeply that America must speed up progress for black people. The views of Southern whites are the diametric opposite.

At last reading, the breakage on the key issues was giving Nixon his early lead. His vote leads Humphrey's by 20 points among people who see "Negro militants as a major cause of the breakdown of law and order," by 19 points among those who see "the courts as a major cause of the breakdown of law and order," by 22 points among those who believe "Negroes have less native intelligence than whites" and by 14 points among people who are worried about "Communist influence in American life."

Not Enough

Among voters who do not go along with these propositions, Humphrey holds an advantage of from 3 to 12 points. This is not enough to overcome Nixon's big bulge with the group up in arms over the law-and-order and racial issues. Significantly, Nixon is able to mount his lead among "disaffected" voters in this election, despite his having to share this vote with Wallace.

However, there are two points which should not be overlooked and which can determine the final outcome in November:

1 — Consistently, among people who are aroused over the courts and black militancy, the number of voters undecided about their choice for President is very low — ranging between 3% and 8%. In contrast, voters who either are worried over criticism of the courts or feel that America is already late in making racial progress are far more uncertain about their voting intentions. Their undecided total mounts up to between 10% and 15%. How this undecided vote eventually comes down could make an appreciable difference.

2 — The "soft" vote in this election lies among young people and the affluent or college educated. Both groups wanted an election that would have pitted Nelson Rockefeller against Eugene McCarthy. At the latest count, Nixon was more than 12 points ahead of Humphrey with both these swing segments of the electorate. Yet majorities of both also feel rather deeply that attacks on the courts and racial backlashs are morally wrong and politically bad for America.

Political Mobility

The young and the affluent, of course, represent the heart of the so-called "new politics" in this country. They also have the greatest political mobility, a capability of switching across party lines more readily than any other segment of the electorate. Nixon is receiving their vote now more from attrition, a kind of "lesser of two evils" view, than from any depth of enthusiasm either on a personality or issue basis.

How Humphrey can at the same time campaign in the old style of Democrats to hold onto the trade-union and low-income votes and also fit the new style and demands for change inherent among the young and the affluent remains to be seen.

Ironically, in terms of their political approaches, both major candidates appear more similar to one another than either does to the new voting groups who may in fact determine the final outcome.

State's Election Costs Estimated

By United Press International

Elections are an expensive business.

Deputy Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann estimated Wednesday the upcoming general election will cost Nebraska taxpayers "between $600,000 and $700,000" before the final ballot has been counted.

Beermann said the main costs this year will center around three things — printing costs, hiring of election officials and publication of the constitutional amendments in newspapers prior to the election.

Each precinct hires 10 persons to oversee the election, he explained, five persons for the counting board and five for the receiving board. The polls are open 12 hours and each person is paid $1 an hour.

Time And Money

Thus, with over 2,000 precincts in the state, it will cost some $240,000 in salaries just to keep the polls open. Added to this is the time spent counting the ballots, which sometimes can run "until three in the morning," he said.

State law requires that constitutional amendments which will be voted on in the election be printed two times in each of 250 legal newspapers around the state. The 250 legal newspapers are designated by the governor.

Beermann said the final cost of publishing the amendments in the papers will run between $110,000 and $200,000. Added to this, he said, is the cost of printing a sample ballot in every newspaper in the state.

Beermann said he could not estimate the cost of printing ballots. But he said this cost item has been reduced by the registration of voters in the state.

Better Estimate

"Before we had registration, we threw away tons of ballots after each election," he said. "But now, we know how many persons are eligible to vote in each precinct and we will print two or three per cent more than that to allow for spoilage. We throw away very few ballots now."

Other expense items include supplies such as pencils and tally sheets, the renting of voting areas in some precincts, and the canvas report.

Beermann said the cost per vote in some western Nebraska counties in the 1966 general election ran as high as $15 per vote. "And there were many counties where it was $8 or more," he said.

"Of course this figure drops substantially in the eastern part of the state where the population is more concentrated," he said. "But it still is fairly high."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Widower Never Lacks Traveling Companions

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q.—"You might like to know my system for having traveling companions whenever I go on a little trip. I'm a widower and when I retired two years ago developed a list of names and phone numbers of friendly folks I'd meet who said they enjoyed traveling. Every month I plan a trip to some city that interests me. I simply drop a postcard to maybe a dozen folks on my list telling them where I'm going, what bus or train I'm taking, and what hotel I'll be at. If they want to come along—fine. Three or four folks always show up and we enjoy the trip together, yet we're independent. It's the simplest way in the world to share trips with others."

A.—Thanks for sharing your system. It's a great idea keeping a list of pleasant people one meets. Then whenever you're in the mood for a get-together, party, or trip it's a simple matter to contact congenial companions.

Q.—"I agree with the woman you wrote about recently who can afford occasional trips but doesn't like to go by herself. I've been on some senior citizen tours but most of the people seem to be twosomes who stick together like Siamese twins. How can you get people to be more friendly?"

A.—The best solution is to have travel clubs for elders in every community, where older people interested in travel can get fully acquainted before leaving on any trips. These clubs may also have a plan of pairing everyone off with different partners every hour or two, so that each person gets to know everyone else. If your area has no travel club, consider starting one.

Q. — "My wife and I got along fine for three decades. But she recently took a course on 'personal improvement' at the Women's Club and everything's hoity-toity now. She's decided we've got to lose weight so we're existing on toast and salads. She insists we read a 'good' book every week, and attend a musical event once a month. Why can't folks grow old doing what comes naturally?"

A. — It's fine being relaxed, but we can all use personal improvements. Too many folks live so relaxed that they become more like vegetables or animals. No harm in giving these techniques a trial. See if they don't upgrade your sense of satisfaction and give you more pleasure in your role as an intelligent human being.

Curb On Loans To Student Rioters Is Agreed On

© New York Times Service

Washington — Senate and House conferees agreed Wednesday on a compromise designed to stem the flow of federal loans and grants to students who engage in serious campus disturbances.

The curb on student rioters is part of a $7.2 billion three-year program of federal aid to colleges and universities.

Cutoff Opposed

As passed in July by the House, in the wake of Columbia University disturbances, the bill called for a mandatory cutoff of federal aid to students whose actions were "of a serious nature and contributed to the disruption of the administration of such institution."

The mandatory cutoff was vigorously opposed by the administration and by numerous colleges and universities.

Under the Senate-House compromise, students would face loss of federal aid for a period of two years under these conditions:

Hearing Needed

—If convicted by a court of any crime involving use of force, disruption of campus activities or seizure of college property.

—If he or she willfully refused to obey lawful regulations or orders of college officials.

In both cases, funds could be ordered cut off only after opportunity for hearing and upon the finding by university and college officials that the offense was of a serious nature and contributed to substantial disruption of an institution's administration.

Some conferees, opposed to any such curbs, reluctantly accepted the compromise in view of obviously strong congressional sentiment for cracking down on student rioters.

More than 1.4 million students — a fourth of all college students in the U.S. — now receive about $1 billion a year in federal loans, fellowship payments, scholarships and work-study grants.

Amazon Talk Slated

ON CAMPAIGN TRAIL . . . Gronouski, center, chats with Mrs. Morrison and Dean.

Gronouski Hits Nixon Stand On N-Treaty

Omaha (AP) — John A. Gronouski, former U.S. ambassador to Poland, Wednesday labeled Richard Nixon's recommendation that the Senate withhold approval of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty a "travesty."

Gronouski who recently resigned his post in Poland to join Vice President Hubert Humphrey's campaign, told an Omaha news conference that he hopes Nixon is not capable of "sacking" the treaty.

Nixon has endorsed the treaty but called on the Senate to withhold approval because of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. Gronouski declared Nixon apparently was using the treaty for "political purposes."

The former postmaster general shrugged off polls showing Humphrey trailing. He said the polls do not give a good indication of the "long term" ahead.

Gronouski was in Omaha to campaign for Democratic Candidates. He spoke at Columbus Wednesday night at a dinner sponsored by supporters of Third District congressional candidate J. B. Dean of Gothenburg.

Gronouski, who was the United States' only formal contact with Red China during his two years in Poland, said that patience, determination and hard negotiation are needed in dealings with North Vietnam.

He said he spent "over 50% of my time" trying to "find some formula to bring Hanoi to the peace table."

He added that it is impossible to negotiate with the Communists "but anyone who says these things happen quickly just hasn't read history."

Citizens Said Government Shareholders

Omaha, Neb. (UPI) — Maxine Morrison, Second District Democratic congressional candidate, Wednesday urged supporters attending a birthday party reception in her honor to "be involved participants in, rather than outside spectators of government."

"Government is the big business of this country," she said. "All citizens are share-owners in that business, and it is up to them to make sure they get the best possible representatives working for them in that government."

Outlining what she called "the challenges of concerned citizen involvement," Mrs. Morrison cited the possibilities of developing Omaha as "the international beef center of the world" and the need for moving forward with plans to rejuvenate South Omaha with training programs for those left unemployed by the closing of packing plants.

"Needs are great, opportunities are great and personal responsibility is demanded," Mrs. Morrison said. "The impact of the concerned, involved citizen on the workings of government through the political processes is still the best fundamental way of getting things done in this country.

"The greatness of Omaha has always been in her individual citizens. So long as that remains true, the future is secure."

Fick To Receive Award For Range Management

Kearney — Walter Fick, Inman rancher, will be honored here Friday night as the sixth recipient of the "Nebraska Range Management Award." This award is presented to an individual in recognition for outstanding work in the development and-or use of Nebraska range resources.

Fick's most recent contribution to good range management is a narrated slide presentation on "Little Bluestem." This shows his experiences in managing his ranch from rangeland in fair range condition back to good and excellent range condition. He points out to his viewers how he used Little Bluestem grass as an indicator of the vigor and condition of his range. The Soil Conservation Service makes wide use of these slides.

Fick served as president of the Nebraska section, American Society of Range Management, during the 1961-1962 term.

The 4-H range club which Fick has served as a leader, has been active in district and state range judging contests. The 4-H members have gone to the National Pasture and Range Judging Contest three times; taking seventh place in 1960, first in 1961 and fourth in 1966. Two of his sons have been state range judging champions.

Fick presently is serving as the chairman of the State Soil and Water Conservation District's range committee. He also is a supervisor for the Holt Soil and Water Conservation District, and has previously served two 4-year terms on the Holt County Extension Board.

As an outstanding conservationist, he has received the conservation award photo and the Sioux City Permanent Agriculture Award.

Need For More Judges Is Told

Beatrice (UPI) — Democratic candidate for congress from Nebraska's First District, Clair Callan of Odell said here more judges are needed in America's courts to assure "swifter and surer justice."

Callan commented at the Beatrice Chamber of Commerce's "Meet the Candidate Luncheon."

"We need swifter justice," Callan said. "And to accomplish this, we need more judges, prosecutors and public defenders. Many of the lower courts have dockets so full, cases are delayed two and three years. More judges would give us swifter and surer justice."

Callan said caution must be taken against letting "political expediency ruin the judicial freedom which has treated us so fairly and justly through the years."

He said that although he did not agree with all the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court, "Our judicial system has served us well over the years."

James Connor To Direct North Platte Chamber Of Commerce

Connor was previously affiliated with the Denver Chamber of Commerce and served as program director of the chamber with the Denver National Alliance of Businessmen.

Connor has previously been the manager of the Aurora and Le Marr, Colo., Chambers of Commerce. He is a native of Iowa City, Iowa.

Court Litigation Said Needed For Desegregation In North

Washington (AP) — The woman directing the government's new search for racial discrimination in northern school systems says the effort will produce little desegregation unless the courts are asked to require it.

"There's going to have to be a lot of litigation fast, or nothing much is going to happen," said Mrs. Ruby Martin, chief of the Office for Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

She said in an interview that the department's first probes into the North indicate that much of the segregation has been perpetuated, if not caused, by decisions of school officials over the years.

Long Digging

But she said proving that school boards are to blame requires long and painstaking digging through school records. With its small staff of investigators — 30 at present — the departmnt can have no early, broad impact on the large-scale segregation in the North, she said.

Mrs. Martin contrasted the situation with the South where, she said, "the evidence is right there sitting up for you" because most southern school systems traditionally had operated legally separate schools for whites and Negroes.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1954 that school segregation by law is unconstitutional.

In the North, school segregation has grown up with segregated housing. And no court yet has ruled that such school segregation itself is unconstitutional, regardless of the circumstantial cause. But Mrs. Martin said she has hope that such decisions will come.

The Justice Department has just begun its attack on northern discrimination. Its first suit won a federal judge's order for desegregation of schools in South Holland, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. Another department action has led to plans for desegregating teachers in Indianapolis.

Several suits by private groups also are pending in the North.

Legal Attack

Mrs. Martin said her program will work to advance the legal attack on northern discrimination by recommending some of its investigation cases to the Justice Department for action.

And in communities which refuse to undo discrimination found by the investigations, Mrs. Martin said, the Welfare Department will seek cutoff of federal school aid funds under provisions of the 1964 Civil Rigiths Act as it has done in the South.

The northern effort, launched last April, represents the first time the government has applied its antidiscrimination guidelines to the North as well as the South.

In the North so far, officials have completed full-scale investigations in six cities and preliminary reviews in 24 others.

Mrs. Martin and other officials said they have found generally that their area of greatest concern — pupil assignment and school district boundaries — shows less obvious discrimination than they had anticipated.

The officials said they have located apparent cases of gerrymandering, drawing of school boundaries without regard to normal divisions just to keep whites and Negroes out of the same schools.

Dollar Differences

They said, however, that the places where schools are located has turned up several instances of apparent discrimination and may be more important than they had thought.

The first investigations haven't turned up the dollar differences in spending between white and Negro schools that the civil rights officials said they had expected. They reported finding, however, that many Negro schools have less rich curriculums, lacking such academic subjects as science.

The one area where the investigators have found what they term obvious discrimination is in teacher assignments. They found that virtually no Negro teachers have been assigned to white schools.

Cities where full scale investigations have been conducted are Waterbury, Conn.; Union Township, N.J.; McKeesport, Pa.; Toledo and Middletown, Ohio, and Pasadena, Calif.

Cuban's Book Seized

Istanbul (AP) — On court orders Turkish police have seized bookstore and newsstand copies of the slain Latin-American revolutionary Ernesto Che Guevara's "Dairy of a Guerrilla" on the ground that it contains Communist propaganda. The court also ordered an investigation of Huseyin Gunes, who translated the diary into Turkish.

Swine Testing Station For 2-State Area Eyed

Pawnee City —Swine producers from southeast Kansas have taken positive Nebraska and northeast steps toward establishing a swine testing station to serve the bi-state area.

As a result of a meeting here this week, it has been decided that Farmland Industries of Kansas City, Mo., would be contacted for further information concerning the construction and operation of the station. At present, Farmland Industries operates the only swine testing station in the state at Clarkson.

According to a questionnaire circulated earlier this year and reviewed at the meeting, "interest is high," said Ed Henderson, University of Nebraska Extension Area Resource Development agent, Humboldt. The area surveyed includes 12 Nebraska counties and nine Kansas counties.

The survey indicates that out of 315 replies from commercial producers, who purchased an estimated 535 boars annually, 289 producers said they felt a testing station would help the pork industry in this area. In fact, 250 said they would actually buy boars from the central station if they were superior in performance.

Financing Discussed

Of the 52 replies from purebred breeders in the area, 29 said they would enter market pigs and boars in a central test station.

Also at the meeting, the producers studied possible mercial feed companies, and they discussed the possibility of incorporating the five area swine associations for the purpose of selling shares to support the station.

Hog Cholera Hits 2 More York Herds

York — Two more swine herds in the York vicinity have been hit by hog cholera, according to Dr. S. A. Flora, state veterinarian.

This brings the total to seven in a 10-day period for the York area.

Dr. Flora said that indemnity cost to state and federal governments will run "around $20,000" for the herds disposed of thus far.

Quarantined in York County are any swine believed exposed to the cholera and any other swine with which they have been in contact.

All of the swine under quarantine in York County have been given serum which delays symptoms of cholera up to 30 days, Dr. Flora explained.

Trade Areas OK

There have been "no infected swine on any premise where trade in livestock is being conducted in the York area," he emphasized.

After a herd is quarantined it will be checked periodically at two-week intervals by a state or federal veterinarian, the state official said.

Dali Paintings Stolen

Paris (UPI) — Police said seven works of artist Salvador Dali were stolen during the night at a Grenoble Art Gallery where they were on exhibit. The paintings were valued at $35,000 and belonged to an unidentified art collector friend of the Spanish-born painter.

Bid Opening Set On New Library NU Med College

Omaha (AP) — Bids will be opened Oct. 9 at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine for the construction of a $3 million medical library at the college.

Bid notices went to contractors Wednesday. The university Board of Regents said the three-story library will be built on top of the three-floor basic science building, which is now nearing completion.

The construction will be financed with a $1.6 million federal grant plus contributions from alumni of $350,000. The remainder will come from state funds.

It will be the official library of the Nebraska State Medical Association. It is designed to hold 283,000 volumes.

Highway User Revenue Distributions Revealed

. . . LEGISLATIVE STUDY DRAMATIZES INEQUITIES

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Omaha receives $9.26 per capita in state highway user revenue . . . the Sandhills community of Arthur gets $48.67, and Lincoln receives $6.95.

Douglas County receives $2,125.59 per mile in state highway user revenue. Cherry County gets $69.57 per mile.

Omaha receives $2,765.60 per mile, while the village of Anoka in northern Nebraska gets $51.74. Terrytown's take (For .81 mile) is $3,140.69 per mile.

Those figures, and hundreds more, were released Wednesday by the Legislative Council's highway study committee to dramatize inequities in Nebraska's complicated highway user revenue distribution formula.

Apparent Inequities

Whereas previous inequities spotlighted by and for the committee concertrated on allegedly unfair distribution between cities and counties, the new figures pointed to apparent inequities among the cities and among the counties.

"Comparison of revenue allocations on an average per mile basis helps point out the inequities which exist in our present distribution methods," Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, chairman of the study committee, noted.

The committee is charged with the responsibility of recommending legislative changes to the 1969 Legislature which convenes next January.

After months of hearings and mettings on the subject, the committee began consideration of its recommendations at a meeting last Friday. The next session is scheduled for late this month or early October.

Changes Recommended

Wilbur Smith and Associates, the South Carolina firm of consulting engineers which probed Nebraska's highway financial picture as one phase of the 1965-67 roads study, has recommended major changes in the highway revenue distribution formula.

Key proposals include a scrapping of the present maze of complex formulas for the distribution of motor fuel taxes and motor registration fees and pooling of all state highway user revenue.

The consultants proposed that the pool then be distributed 60% to the state, 22% to the cities, and 18% to the counties.

That formula would, in effect, double the city share of the pot and cut the county share in half.

Highway user collections in 1967 totaled $72,368,089. Some $15,159,519 was distributed for county roads, while $7,545,358 was distributed for use on city streets.

'Better Understanding'

"To create better understanding of Nebraska's present method of distributing highway user revenue to cities and counties, it was our belief we needed a clearer determination of how revenue compares with the miles of streets, or miles of roads, for which cities and counties are responsible," Warner said.

That determination is one indicator of each entity's responsibility, he pointed out.

"To simply state that Lincoln is responsible for 520 miles of streets, Omaha for 1,010, North Platte for 106, Beatrice for 82, Grand Island for 141 does not relate the complexities of administering street systems," Warner said.

Varying factors include the degree of service required on quiet residential streets as compared to high-volume traffic in business and industrial areas, he noted.

"Nor does the mere stating that Cherry County has 2,828 miles of roads on its county system, that Douglas has 653, Arthur has 488, Hamilton has 1,009, Richardson has 877, or Knox has 1,534 reveal the relative problems each has regarding drainage, soil conditions, topography and traffic ranging from light to heavy volumes."

'Basic Burdens'

However, Warner suggested, "there are basic burdens inherent in providing service on every mile of road or street for which a county or to city is responsible.

"Thus, a straight mileage factor is a definite indicator of the basic responsibilities each county or city has."

With those conditions in mind, the committee released 40 pages of figures showing the disparity in revenue distributed among the cities and among the counties.

Those figures show that:

—Second high to Douglas County's $2,125.59 of revenue per mile of county roads is Lancaster County's $795.80 per mile. Most counties receive less than $200 per mile.

—The per capita share of highway revenue distributed to cities dips as low as $4.53 in Gurley and $4.87 in Riverton and Hamlet.

—Lincoln receives $1,717.85 per mile.

—Most cities receive less than $1,000 per mile, and between $5 and $8 per capita. Only 11 communities get more than $10 per capita.

Hippies Should Be Dealt With Severely–Martin

Washington (UPI) — "The hippies and those working towards disruption of our daily lives should be dealt with severly by both the police and the courts," Rep. David Martin, R-Neb., said.

Martin, commenting in his weekly newsletter, said the recent trouble in Chicago stemmed from a small group of well organized agitators. He said they visited the host city of the Democratic National Convention to cause trouble.

"The television networks gave only one side of the picture and were extremely harsh in their criticism of the Chicago police force," Martin said.

He said vigorous law enforcement is one way in which riots and planned disturbances can be curtailed. Martin noted that the Chicago demonstrators were handled without the loss of life.

McCarthy Jokes About 2 Nominees

By GLORIA EMERSON

Nice, France — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, on vacation on the French Riviera, stretched out in the sun Wednesday in a cabana and joked about the two chief nominees for the presidency of the United States, and he did not conceal his contempt for them.

"Nixon doesn't have woof. Humphrey has lots of woof but no warp," the Minnesota Democrat said.

"So it winds up as too much fringe," said Bart Howard, a friend who is a songwriter. The senator liked that. He let out a little whoop of laughter.

Fabric Thread

"What's warp? What's woof?" asked Howard Stein, president of the Dreyfus Fund, who was the finance manager of McCarthy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The senator replied that woof means the threads that are the filling in a woven fabric, and that the warp is the threads that extend lengthwise in the loom. He knows because he was inside a textile mill in Illinois during the campaign, he said.

McCarthy, who is visiting France with his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stein, Howard, and Mrs. Don Edwards, wife of the California representative, was feeling frisky.

No Tired Look

He does not look tired or drained after the nine months of campaigning that took him into 40 states and through seven primaries.

McCarthy would not say whether he will endorse Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee, or will criticize both candidates publicly and advise his supporters to abstain from voting.

There was no doubt that he feels scorn for the lack of emotional restraint he sees in both men.

Political Tears

"The gift of tears is pretty much gone in religion — you see more of it in politicians these days," he said. "There are the politicians who cry straight. Others just well up but the tears never really come out. It's a great gift, that welling up."

There seemed to be no bitterness and no dwelling on the "ifs" as McCarthy and his friends in his cabana, discussed the campaign. Instead, there were private whimsical jokes on what he might have done had he been elected president.

Offense Department

Then his mood shifted again from gaiety to gravity.

"It's been pointed out that we are the first great nation whose military establishment is called the Department of Defense — and if you thought of yourself as being always on the defensive, there was no limit to what you can do," the senator said.

"I would have created a department of offense to keep the Department of Defense busy," he said.

McCarthy would not say whether he would see President de Gaulle, or give his opinion of him or say if he would go to Paris.

McCarthy was asked what advice he could give — and also what hope — to his supporters.

"The hope? It's our foreign policy — to fill the Senate with the right men. Paul O'Dwyer, for example, in New York. Harold Hughes in Iowa. One-third of the Senate is coming up for re-election in two years — perhaps we can set an example this time, to affect the next election," he said.

HHH Backed By Top Board Of AFL-CIO

New York (AP) — The general board of the AFL-CIO endorsed Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey for president Wednesday, rejecting Republican Richard M. Nixon and proclaiming "open contempt" for third party candidate George C. Wallace.

The unanimous endorsement of Humphrey by the 150-member board came as no surprise. Most of the AFL-CIO leadership endorse him last May.

President George Meany, long a Humphrey supporter, announced the board's action at the windup of a three-day meeting.

The board dismissed Nixon on the basis of his record in Congress and as vice president, and said he had actively opposed the programs which led to "the unprecedented domestic progress of the last eight years."

Its strongest criticism went to Wallace.

"Mr. Wallace has no platform, no policies and no program for America — save racism and hatred.

Humphrey Makes Plea For N-Treaty OK Now

© New York Times Service

Washington — Vice President Hubert Humphrey made a passionate plea for immediate ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty Wednesday, asserting that "failure to act this year could mean killing this treaty forever."

"Nearly 50 years ago," the vice president said in a statement, "the Senate refused to ratify the Treaty of Versailles. In that rejection lay the seeds of war that were harvested in World War II.

"In this age of mass destruction — in this age of quick annihilation — we cannot run that terrible risk again."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday approved the treaty, which would prevent the spread of atomic weapons beyond the five countries now possessing them.

Former vice president Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, has said he favors the treaty but opposes ratification now — and it was to this point that Humphrey spoke Wednesday.

The vice president and his strategists are convinced that in the treaty they have found an issue on which Nixon is highly vulnerable.

Kennedy, McGovern To Host HHH

Washington (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey's efforts to attract dissident Democrats will take him across half the continent Thursday to accept public embraces from Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and George S. McGovern.

Kennedy and McGovern, both of whom bucked Humphrey's quest for the Democratic presidential nomination at one time or another, will introduce the vice president at meetings in their home states.

Humphrey flies first to Boston where Kennedy will present him at a noon-hour campaign rally in the business district.

The vice president then goes to Sioux Falls, S. D., for a series of appearances with McGovern, whose dissenting views on the Vietnam war prompted him to run against Humphrey at last month's Democratic National Convention.

Humphrey and his partisans hope the visits to Massachusetts and South Dakota will mark an auspicious start for a campaign tour that will span the next three weeks and take the candidate to such states as Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio, California, Washington and Oregon.

Attacks On Czech Leaders Protested

© New York Times Service

Prague (AP) —Czechoslovakia has protested to the Soviet Union and the four other invading powers because of their persistent attacks on Czechoslovak Communist leaders, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

The protests were delivered through regular diplomatic channels to Poland, East Germeny, Hungary and Bulgaria as well as to Moscow.

The attacks, centered on some men already shunted to the sidelines make Czechoslovaks nervous about the future.

Women Protest

The targets included Frantisek Kriegel, a surgeon dismissed two weeks ago as president of the Communist-led National Front; Dr. Cestnir Cisar, a former party secretary, and Prof. Ota Sik, who resigned as deputy premier under Soviet pressure.

Another kind of protest came from the Union of Czechoslovak Women. They were indignant about a story that Soviet soldiers had resisted the seductions of Czechoslovak girls trying to compromise them.

"It is beneath human dignity to argue with such reports," said a statement from the union published in the official Communist daily Rude Pravo.

Army Praised

Defense ministry officials praised the army for its action during the invasion. The army did not resist, but it is believed to have given active help to clandestine broadcasters.

Czechoslovak leaders sought to assure their people at home and abroad that justice would prevail despite the military occupation, designed to strengthen and perpetuate communism in this country.

Appeals to come home were directed at Czechoslovaks waiting in the West, torn between the ideas of living under Russian occupation and starting life anew in foreign lands.

No Persecution

The travelers, including professional, business and technical men whose prolonged absence threatened to disrupt normal economic life in Czechoslovakia, were promised there would be no persecution of anyone who had obeyed the laws.

In addition, leaders announced plans to carry on with rehabilitation of citizens unjustly punished under the Stalinist-type regime of Antonin Novotny, who was ousted as the Communists Party chief and the nation's president by the present reform minded leadership.

The invasion Aug. 20-21 came at the height of the vacation season. The exact number of Czechoslovaks who were out of the country has never been announced. Though many have returned, several thousand are known to be still in Austria, Italy, Switzerland, West Germany and Yugoslavia.

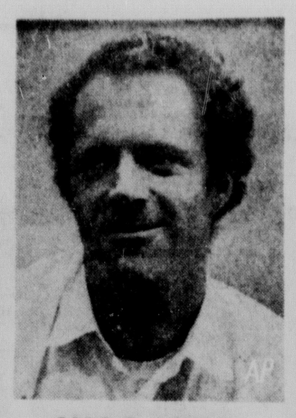
Tass: Resistance Forces Remain In Czech Press

Moscow (AP) — Tass news agency said Wednesday resistance forces, "dodging and shifting," remain organized in the mass media of Czechoslovakia despite censorship and four weeks of occupation by Soviet and East bloc troops.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, also accused these "hostile forces" of pretending to show outward signs of "normalization" while at the same time "seeking to direct public opinion against the (Moscow) agreements."

Tass cited former deputy premier Ota Sik, who resigned recently under Soviet pressure, as "typical . . . of the right-wing forces in present conditions."

Sik, who Tass said has taken over the post of economic adviser at the Czechoslovak Embassy in Yugoslavia, "continues to oppose the line" of the Czechoslovak government aimed at normalization and withdrawal of foreign troops.



WAS HELD

Dr. M. Anthony Jensen, 29, a University of Pennsylvania associate professor, told Wednesday how he was held for a day and a half by authorities in Prague, Czechosolovakia, earlier this month.

Romanian Court Clears Victims Of Stalinist Era

Bucharest (AP) — Fourteen Romanian victims of Stalinist trials, some long dead, were rehabilitated Wednesday by a ruling of Romania's Supreme Court.

The names of four former Communist Party leaders and 10 prominent non-Communists, mostly engineers and administrators, were officially cleared in a move with anti-Soviet overtones.

The party leaders, purged in 1954, included Vasile Luca, a Moscow-trained trade union chief who died in prison in 1960. The others, all former party secretaries, were Dumitriu Cernicia, Alexandru Iacob and Ivan Solymos.

Men of the non-Communist group were sentenced to death or long prison terms in the Danube Canal trial of 1952. This was a hearing reportedly staged on orders from the Kremlin after collapse of Soviet-sponsored Danube Canal project on the Black Sea coast.

Communist Meet Slated In Budapest

Budapest, Hungary — The largest gathering of Communist parties since the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia almost a month ago is scheduled for Budapest early next week.

Bringing together perhaps as many as 50 Communist parties, the meeting is technically in preparation for a larger Moscow conference later in the year. Last spring, the world conference was scheduled for Nov. 25.

News of next week's meeting came from sources close to the Hungarian government, .though the conference has not yet been officially announced, and details were sparse.

There had been speculation that the Soviet Union would decide to postpone the November meeting until the climate in the world Communist movement was more favorable to Moscow. It was believed that the Soviet Union may have felt that to go ahead now with a meeting designed to strengthen faltering party unity could prove self-defeating in view of the ferment in the parties as a result of the invasion.

The Soviet Communist Party, which has recently been commending the "realistic approach" of the Czechoslovak leaders in solving their problems, has now apparently decided to pursue all efforts to try to bring the movement into harmony — with tough persuasion if necessary.

The preparatory meeting will be watched as much for who does not come as who does.

Absentees from a similar preparatory session here in April included seven of the Communist Parties that rule their own countries: China, Albania, North Vietnam, North Korea, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Cuba.

BEN SIMON'S DOWNSTAIRS STORE, DOWNTOWN

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

"The loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean," said Mark Twain. Then he wrote:

"No alien land in all the world has any deep strong charm for me but that one; no other land could so lonesomely and beseechingly haunt me sleeping and waking, through half a lifetime as that one has done.

"Other things leave me, but it abides; other things change, but it remains the same."

"For me its balmy airs are always blowing, its summer seas flashing in the sun; the pulsing of its surf-beat is in my ear; I can see its garlanded crags, its leaping cascades; its plumy palm trees drowsing by the shore; its remote summits floating like islands above the cloud-rack; I can feel the spirit of its woodland solitude; I can hear the plash of its brooks; in my nostrils still lives the breath of flowers that perished 20 years ago."

After many years, he did go back.

The night before they got to Honolulu, he stayed on deck. He couldn't sleep.

When they anchored— (the summits of Oahu floating like islands above the cloud-rack) — there was plague in the island. Smoke from burning Chinatown rose over the city. No passengers were allowed ashore.

The ship sailed. He never got back again.

Captain James Cook discovered th islands in 1778. He wrote in the ship's log:

"Some of the natives repeated a long prayer before they came aboard; and others afterwards sung and made motions with their hands."

The British discoverer had made the greatest discovery of all. He had discovered the hula.

She appears in all the ads. Appears in TV travel shows. Appears nightly in all the hotels and nightclubs. And appears amazingly after breakfast when all the tourist ladies turn out for the hula lesson.

"The hula girl made Hawaii," a tourist bureau man recalls. "Why, we never sent out a publicity picture without a hula girl. Or if we did, I doubt that it got published.

"The hula girl became the trademark of Hawaii. We can thank the grass skirt for the million plus tourists we get today."

Curiously, the grass skirt is not Hawaiian. It's Samoan.

"That's right," he said. "One of the early kings sent ambassadors down to Samoa. He had an idea of forming a Polynesian federation. The early sugar planters put a stop to that. But the ambassadors did bring back the grass skirt."

It's been on the hula girl of Hawaii ever since. Adding a little more sway to the hips.

"I want to learn to do the hula,
"Just like they do in Honolulu . . ."

The hula lesson is free. When I took my first hula lesson, there was a charge for it.

They had hula teachers. I was so shy about it, I had the lessons in my hotel room. It's tricky. Men who do the hula best are fat. If you've got plenty fat around the pistol pockets, you get more sway.

Huge Livestock Feed Plant Unveiled By Ralston Purina

A new livestock feed plant with an annual capacity of 120,000 tons was unveiled here Wednesday by Ralston Purina Company.

The plant will equal the world's most advanced equipment in feed manufacturing.

In the dedication ceremony Donald Danforth Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., corporate vice president of Purina's Chow Division, said Ralston Purina believes the future of southeastern Nebraska is great and "the decision to build this new and modern manufacturing facility right here in the heart of this rapidly growing segment of animal agriculture demonstrates more significantly than words the confidence Purina has in the area's future."

Livestock feeders, farmers and agribusiness leaders from throughout southeastern Nebraska toured the facility and observed the most advanced equipment and technology known to the feed industry including a number of unique features designed and patented by Purina's own engineers.

The scope of automation in the feed industry was demonstrated in the explanation of the operation of the plant. The plant is designed so that three men on the second floor and one man supervising loading and loading operations on the first floor can operate the large facility to its full capacity.

Don Rix of Omaha, area director of Purina operations, told Governor Norbert Tiemann and other state, county and city officials: "We have looked forward eagerly to this day from a time over two years ago when the decision was first made to move the manufacturing headquarters of the Ralston Purina Company into the middle of this fast growing area of southeastern Nebraska."

Purina representatives advised Governor Tiemann and the farmers present "we hope to be your biggest customer for grain as it is our policy to buy all possible grain and other ingredients locally."

Paul Phelps of Lincoln is the manager of production for Purina's new facility.

Fire In Seoul Destroys Shops

Seoul (UPI) — Fire broke out at a downtown market area in Seoul, destroyed approximately 100 shops and injured 11 persons.

The blaze broke out in a noodle shop in the Tongdaemun Market and took 200 local firemen and U.S. military fire brigades an hour and a half to put out.

Hallam Radiation Check Set

A twin-engine aircraft will fly low over the Hallam nuclear power facility during the next 10 days to measure levels of radiation.

The plane will fly over a 10-mile square centered on the reactor site at about 300 feet as part of a continuing national aerial survey program conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Measurements will determine present levels of radiation which come from low-level radioactivity in surface soils and rocks, and which result from normal atomic energy operations.

Knowing today's normal radiation will make it possible to compare any future variation which might result either from nuclear testing by any nation or from other sources, according to the AEC.

The Hallam nuclear facility, operated jointly by AEC and Consumers Public Power District, was closed down after functional difficulties developed within the core of the reactor. It has since been dismantled.

Body Heat Photos Said Cancer Tool

Denver, Colo. (AP) — Body heat photography — thermography — can find breast cancers missed by physical examination and X-ray, says a Temple University researcher.

Dr. Jo Ann D. Haberman said a study of 510 women at Temple's Health Sciences Center in Philadelphia pointed out the effectiveness of thermography as a diagnostic tool.

RFK Was Winner Of Mock Primary At NU

The late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy won the "Choice 68" mock presidential primary election on the University of Nebraska campus last spring, The Daily Nebraskan revealed Wednesday.

Results of the student vote, undertaken in conjunction with a national presidential primary on college campuses, had not previously been announced. Only national totals were available last spring.

Kennedy captured 34% of the NU vote, compared to 23% for Richard Nixon, 21% for Sen. Eugene McCarthy and 10% for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Only 2,656 students participated in the election.

Second choice ballots at NU showed McCarthy 25%, Kennedy 21%, Rockefeller Kennedy 31%, Rockefleler 14%, and Nixon 13%.

Third choice gave Rockefeller 18%, McCarthy 17%, Kennedy 12%, and Nixon 11%.

Transplant Performed

Madrid (UPI) — Spanish heart surgeon Cristobal Martinez Bordiu performed Spain's first heart transplant and a medical bulletin said the patient was in "good condition" at the capital's La Paz Social Security Hospital. The hospital refused to identify either the donor or the patient.

Debate With Foes Sought By Hamilton

New Party congressional nominee Bruce Hamilton of Lincoln Wednesday suggested that all three candidates for the First District seat in the House participae in a series of public debates.

Democratic nominee Clair Callan has responded favorably to the proposal contingent upon an affirmative response from Republican Rep. Robert Denney.

"If Mr. Denney's response is favorable, a schedule of public debates will be arranged," Hamilton said.

The three candidates should "engage in a series of public discussions on the issues during this coming campaign," Hamilton said.

"Such a series of meetings would help to inform the voters of the views of the candidates on the vital issues of the day."

Hamilton, 26, a University of Nebraska College of Law senior, is the nominee of a third party formed by liberals to oppose the war in Vietnam and seek changes in national priorities.

Jail Escapee Gets Sentence

Ronald Duane Hansen, captured Lancaster County jail escapee, was sentenced to up to four years in prison Wednesday on three separate charges.

District Judge William Hastings sentenced Hansen, 18, to two years each on charges of assault with intent to rob and burglary, the terms to run concurrently.

Hansen drew an additional sentence of one to two years for escaping from the county jail. It will begin after the first two sentences are served.

The young Lincolnite escaped with another man while awaiting sentence on the assault and burglary charges. Jailer Dey T. Higbee was injured in the incident.

Hansen was apprehended shortly after the escape.

Health Service OKs Two State Planning Projects

State Health Director Lynn Thompson Wednesday reported U.S. Public Health Service approval has been received for two Nebraska comprehensive health planning projects.

The United Community Services of Omaha was granted $109,000 for a two-year planning project for comprehensive health services for the Omaha metropolitan area.

The second award, $28,000, went to the Grand Island Area Health Planning Council, covering a two-year planning project for Hall, Howard, Hamilton and Merrick Counties.

Dr. Thompson said both projects had been approved by the State Board of Health.

Dirksen Drops Proposal Limiting Court's Powers

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen Wednesday withdrew his amendment to the gun control bill that would have limited the Supreme Court's powers in obscenity cases. But he said he would offer his porposal as a separate piece of legislation.

Dirksen announced his decision after conferring with Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

The Senate Republican leader's introduction of the amendment caused speculation in some quarters that it was an effort to gain approval of Abe Fortas' nomination as chief justice, which Dirksen supports.

Arrests Begin

'Mid-Point' IFYE Meet Scheduled

. . . At Halsey

Halsey — A conference at the State 4-H Camp Sept. 28-29 will mark the "mid-point" of individual farm visits in Nebraska for eight International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegates to Nebraska.

The IFYE's arrived in Lincoln in early August to begin the first phase of on-farm visits with host families in 29 Nebraska counties. At the conclusion of the two-day conference, they will continue on to other counties for further experience in Nebraska farm living before departing for their home countries in October or early November.

The mid-point meeting is planned and conducted through the efforts of the Nebraska IFYE Alumni group, composed of former state IFYE delegates to other countries.

Guests of honor will be the current IFYE delegates in the state, Luis Rangel, Venezuela; Thottathil Rajan and Mrinmoy Barataki, India; Jennifer Laycock, England; Alva Gustafsson, Sweden; Monique Rosseau, France; Alphons Smit, The Netherlands; and Christakis Palaontas, Cyprus.

Assisting in the conference will be IFYE Alumni officers Virgil Wagner, Hooper, president; Mrs. Judy Dye, Rosalie, vice president; Mrs. James Roseberry, Dunning, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. John Orr, state IFYE program coordinator at the University of Nebraska.

Moderating a get-acquainted panel on Sept. 28 will be Don Siffring, Bridgeport, former IFYE delegate to Germany. Banquet chairman is Henry Wicke of Wauneta, former IFYE delegate to Paraguay, and welcome will be by William Pick of Hartington, IFYE host family chairman.

Wisner Entry Wins Swine Carcass Meet

A Hampshire barrow owned by William McGuire, Wisner, was the champion carcass in the muscle-efficiency swine contest held in connection with the 1968 Nebraska State Fair.

The contest results were announced this week by Dr. Leo Lucas, Extension livestock specialist at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Forty Nebraska swine breeders entered the contest, and 25 hogs were exhibited at the fair. Contest carcasses must meet minimum standards of 29 inches in length, a loin eye area of 4.0 inches and carcass weight of 140 pounds. Eligible carcasses must have back fat not to exceed 1.6 inches.

The winning Hampshire entry had a carcass length of 32.0 inches, back fat thickness of 1.0 inch, and yielded 69.3 pounds of ham and loin. It was 138 days of age and posted a record .502 pounds of ham and loin per day of age. The final placing was made on the basis of pounds of ham and loin per day of age.

A total of $200 in premium money was offered by the State Fair for the top entries, including $50 for first place, $25 for second place and $20 for third place.

Feerhusen To Receive Award For Saving Boy

Larry Feerhusen of Lincoln, a University of Nebraska student, Wednesday was named to receive the Nebraska Hero's Award.

Larry Feerhusen

Hero's Award Recipient

Sponsored by the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association, the award went to the Lincoln Southeast High School graduate for his efforts in saving the life of Robert Bryan, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bryan of Lincoln.

Robert Metcalf of Lincoln, president of the association, said "young Feerhusen was part of a skiing party who witnessed the capsizing of the Bryan family boat by a wave at Pawnee Lake near Emerald in July.

"Instead of just passing by, Larry and his friends moved quickly to the boat's side and asked if their assistance was needed."

Dived Under Boat

It was then that Feerhusen jumped into the water and dived under the bobbing boat. He found Robert Bryan up under the bow of the craft, wearing a life jacket. "I tried to get his life jacket off but I couldn't," Feerhusen said. Next, he tried to get the boy out of the air pocket but the youngster's leg was caught.

"I tried it again and told him to keep his legs together and hold on tight. This time we were successful," recalled Larry.

Metcalf explained that Feerhusen will be honored, along with other Nebraska heroes at the funeral directors convention in Lincoln in April.

Welfare Officials, Children, Youth Group To Confer

Grand Island — The second in a series of district meetings of the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth will be held at the Yancey Hotel in Grand Island today, 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. This meeting is in co-operation with the Central Nebraska Welfare Directors Association.

The proposal on the Comprehensive Children and Family Program for Nebraska is to be presented by Kenton Williams, chief Division Of Children and Family Services.

A reactor panel made up of representatives from directors, Central Nebraska Association for Mental Retarded and State Department of Education, and county welfare directors will discuss how this new program would co-ordinate with their programs.

Following luncheon will be an orientation to workshops by Mrs. Edwin Ingraham, Omaha, member of legislative study committee.

School Bus, Car Collide In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — A private school bus loaded with youngsters and a car collided at an intersection here Wednesday, injuring the driver of the car.

Occupants of the bus, en route to Edison Elementary School, were not hurt.

Texan Sentenced On Check Charge

Beatrice (UPI) — Michael B. Nisbet, 25, of Tampa, Tex., Wednesday was sentenced to one to three years at the Nebraska Penal Complex on a no-account check charge in Gage County District Court.

Testimony was introduced in the trial that Nisbet wrote a check for $2,615.53 to purchase an auto from a Beatrice dealer. Testimony was given that he left Beatrice and later returned the car with over 3,000 additional miles on it, to the dealer's carlot. He was ar-3sted shortly afterward.

U.N. Council Urges Peace In Mideast

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Amid ominous talk of new war in the Middle East, the Security Council demanded Wednesday that Israel and the Arab nations rigorously respect the council's cease-fire order.

By a vote of 14 to 0, with 1 abstention, the council approved a resolution urging once more that Israel and the Arabs extend their fullest cooperation to the peace efforts of Gunnar Jarring, the Swedish peace envoy of Secretary-General U Thant.

Algeria was the lone abstainer.

The original cease-fire order came in the wake of the Arab-Israeli war of June 5-10, 1967. Since then there have been repeated violations by both sides, and the tempo of hostilities has stepped up in recent weeks.

The resolution worked out among the 10 nonpermanent members of the 15-nation council expressed grave concern at the "deteriorating situation in the Middle East."

War Talk Once More Pervades In Mideast

By DENNIS NEELD

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — The Arab nations seem to have abandoned hope of regaining their lost lands from Israel by political means, and war talk once more pervades the Middle East.

A rash of gunfights, ambushes and artillery duels marks the 15-month-old cease-fire lines.

Jordanian and Israeli troops exchange fire almost daily across the Jordan River, one of the main points of tension.

The dogged efforts of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring to obtain a peaceful settlement are now virtually ignored by the Arab press. Arab governments apparently have dismissed his mission as a failure.

Aggressive speeches from Egyptian leaders are ominously reminiscent of those which preceded the six-day war of June 5-10, 1967.

Arms Investment

If war comes "the Arabs will learn once more that we are as powerful as ever before," Prime Minister Levi Eshkol declared this week. His defense minister, Moshe Dayan, warned Israel to be prepared and called for a very heavy investment in arms.

On the other side, President Gamal Abdel Nasser indicated last weekend that Egypt was entering the phase of "retaliation" against Israel. He addressed the 1,700 members of the national congress of his ruling Arab Socialist Union — a meeting which seemed aimed at putting the country on a war footing.

There was speculation in Western capitals that the 50-year-old Egyptian leader was seeking a mandate for a military thrust into Israeli-held Sinai.

'Only Means'

Egypt's armed forces, he said, are the "only means of liberating occupied territory." territory."

Lt. Gen. Mohammed Fawzi, Egypt's war minister and armed forces commander, assured the congress it "has now become absolutely impossible" for Israel to cross the Suez Canal.

He reported on military preparations and spoke glowingly of his troops' combat ability and morale. He emphasized Arab-Soviet cooperation in armaments.

Soviet Advisers

The Egyptians are known to have concentrated 100,000 to 150,000 troops behind the canal's west bank. They have received short-range ground-to-ground missiles from the Soviet Union.

About 3,000 Soviet advisers are believed to be serving with Egyptian forces. The Egyptian air force, destroyed on the ground in June 1967, has been rebuilt with MIG21 fighters and Sukhoi SU 7 fighter-bombers.

Despite their new Soviet equipment, the Arab states are judged by some military observers still to be in no state to take on the Israelis. Another defeat could well bring down Nasser and all his allies. But considerations such as these have rarely dictated events in the turbulent Middle East.

Burglars Hit Clubhouse At Holmes Park

A burglary at the Holmes Park early Wednesday morning netted the burglars $433.17 in cash, golf gloves, and socks.

Police said the burglars apparently gained entrance to the clubhouse by using a glass cutter on one of the windows and crawling through the opening.

Once inside, police said, the burglars ransacked the interior of the clubhouse and removed $395.77 in cash from two cash drawers in one of the cabinets, and an envelope hidden under the cash register desk.

Truck Carrying Load Of Asphalt Goes Into Creek

Lincoln police said a truck carrying a load of asphalt tipped over into Salt Creek from U.S. 77 Wednesday afternoon.

Police said no one was hurt in the accident, but it took the workers approximately two hours to get the truck out of the ditch.

The asphalt the Able Construction truck was carrying had to be taken out of the truck before the truck could be raised and later, street department officials had to return to the site and remove the asphalt as it was damming the creek forcing the waters of Salt Creek to rise.

$950,000 School Proposal Okayed

Papillion (AP) — Residents of the Papillion School District approved a $950,000 bond issue.

It will finance an 11-room addition and new gym for the high school, an addition to Parkview Heights school in La Vista and construction of a new elementary school in southeast Papillion.

300 Force Their Way Into Columbia Building

New York (AP) — About 300 Columbia University students and their supporters forced their way into a campus building Wednesday night and, despite administration disapproval, staged a three-hour meeting which culminated in a noisy march around the grounds.

The group ignored the objections of a security guard at the door to Schermerhorn Hall and elbowed into a large classroom, announcing that the meeting — sponsored by the Students for a Democratic Society — would be held as scheduled.

A spokesman for the university's security headquarters said the gathering was "unauthorized", but added that the students would be allowed to finish their meeting without interference Many of the students left as the meeting dragged on.

About 200 supporters gathered in front of the building to hear Mark Rudd, SDS leader, urge "action" to conclude the evening.

Calling for revocation of the university's charter, Rudd shouted "Ho Chi Minh!", and the crowd picked up the chant.

The university withdrew permission for SDS to use a campus auditorium for its "International Assembly of Revolutionary Students" about half an hour before the meeting was scheduled to start.

The school said it took the action because of a demonstration earlier in the day when about 30 students — suspended for their role in the disorders last spring — clashed with about a dozen campus policemen who barred them from registering.

The demonstrators were led by Rudd.

The clash between the students and the campus guards lasted about 15 minutes. Observers said several plainclothesmen from the New York City police department also were on hand.

The students were among 150 demonstrators who gathered outside the gymnasium, where registration for the first of the Ivy League university's 25,000 students was taking place, after an earlier rally in the center of the campus.

It'll Be Holt Station

Washington (UPI) —The White House said the U.S. naval communications station at Northwest Cape in Australia will be renamed in honor of the late Australian prime minister Harold Holt.

Most Protestants, Many Catholics Said Dissenters On Birth Control

Rome (AP) —A World Council of Churches official declared Wednesday that most Protestants join hands with the great numbers of Roman Catholics in dissenting from the papal encyclical continuing a ban on artificial means of birth control.

Just outside Rome Pope Paul VI, speaking at almost the same time, deplored a "spirit of corrosive criticism" in the church and indicated to those who came to his audience at Castel Gandolfo that Catholics who refuse to obey his ban are failing "to love the church."

Speaking at a news conference in central Rome, Albert van den Heuvel, director of the world council's department of communications in Geneva, said, "In one sense, there is no distinct Protestant reaction. Protestant and Anglican reactions were well within the whole of (Catholic) reactions."

Few Favorable

He reported that Orthodox members of the council and a small number of Protestants "reacted very favorably" to the Pope's ban for Catholics laid down July 29 in the encyclical Humanae Vitae, meaning Of Human Life.

"But the majority of Protestant and Anglican church leaders and theologians," said Van den Heuvel, "were either puzzled or disappointed or very contrary."

He added that many Protestants and others who had made a conscionable decision to use contraceptives could take offense at what he called Pope Paul's implication that "those who use contraceptives (are) potential libertines." The Pope had warned that Vatican approval of contraceptives could lead to a "the general lowering of morality."

Pope Displeased

Pope Paul, meanwhile deplored what he termed "a curious fear of certain Catholics to be behind the movement of ideas so that they adopt with favor the newest idea or the one most opposed to Catholic tradition . . ."

He then went through a list of events and forces that have displeased him: occupation of cathedrals by militant Catholics, approval of indecent movies, protests against the contraceptives ban, promotion of violence to cure social ills and anarchial demonstrations around the world.

"Where is the love for the church?" he asked.

Clark Assails Police Brutality

. . . FBI CHIEF DIFFERS DRAMATICALLY WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, in apparent criticism of the bloody battles between police and antiwar protesters at the Democratic National Convention, condemned police brutality Wednesday as the most dangerous type of violence.

Clark and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover differed dramatically on police handling of such disorders as they testified at the start of hearinge before the mission on violence.

Minimum Force

Clark, without naming Chicago, said police should be told to use only minimum force necessary to curb disturbances. He said police should ease tension, not inflame it.

"Of all violence, police violence in excess of authority is the most dangerous," Clark said. "For who will protect the public when the police violate the law?"

J. EDGAR HOOVER

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, chairman of the violence commission, said, "It is perfectly apparent there was uncalled-for action on both sides."

But the retired educator added, "If a bag of urine were thrown in my face, I think I would react."

Hoover said antiwar demonstrators deliberately provoked police by hurling abuse and human refuse at them. He said it was a tribute to the police that paralysis of the city was prevented without loss of life.

The controversy over the Chicago clashes dominated the initial hearings of the commission created by President Johnson upon the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June.

Initial Session

The 13-member National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, opening its hearings in the same building where the slain senator had his offices, heard only a passing reference to assassinations in its initial session.

Both Clark and Hoover surveyed the wide range of violence in America. Each spoke out strongly for gun control at the very hour when the Senate was voting down a proposal for registration of firearms and licensing of owners, 55 to 31.

Hoover endorsed licensing and said tough gun controls are "imperative for the public's safety." Clark said gun controls "will save thousands of lives, eliminate tens of thousands of serious crimes."

U.S. Fails To Launch New Satellite

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — A three-stage Delta rocket exploded into a massive fireball Wednesday night, ruining an attempt to orbit the world's most powerful communications satellite and forcing a change in plans to telecast next month's Olympic games to Europe.

The 10-story-tall rocket and its Atlantic 3 satellite burst apart in a ball of reddish-orange flame when the Delta pitched back toward earth, tumbled out of control and broke apart several thousand feet above the Atlantic Ocean.

The range safety officer sent a radio signal to trigger explosive charges in the three-stage rocket, but the Delta already had destroyed itself.

The launch director said the problem could have originated anywhere in the circuitry of the gyroscope or autopilot system. Experts were studying radio data to determine what went wrong.

Omaha Asks For Rehearing On Personal Injuries Suit

The city of Omaha Wednesday asked the State Supreme Court for a rehearing on a personal injuries suit involving a pedestrian and an Omaha police car.

The high court two weeks ago reversed a Douglas County District Court decision to dismiss a damage suit filed by Barbara Brown of Omaha who had been injured in an accident with an Omaha police car.

The decision, with three justices dissenting, in effect swept aside the concept of governmental immunity.

In the rehearing motion, Omaha attorneys said the high court had intruded into the prerogatives of the Legislature. They said that services such as police and fire protection were for the good of the community and their functions should be protected from suit.

The attorneys said the court had extended the scope of the right to sue the government when it acts in a proprietary manner in the service functions. They said they failed to see the logical connection between the two areas.

"To extend the logic of the court's opinion in this case it would appear that those municipalities who find it onerous to operate police cars, fire trucks and rescue squads . . . may avoid liability by discontinuing their use of municipally owned motor vehicles and returning to the serene agrarianism of the horse-drawn fire cart and the mounted policeman," the attorneys said.

Omaha also asked the high court to waive its own internal rules and permit oral arguments on the rehearing motion.

Information Day For High School Seniors Slated

The first in a series of four Senior Information Days for students from Nebraska high schools will be held at the University of Nebraska Sept. 28.

The program is designed to help the seniors acquaint themselves with academic aspects of the university and campus life, according to John Aronson, director of admissions.

After a general registration and welcome at the Coliseum, student members of the Nebraska Human Resources Research Foundation will serve as guides to attend special discussions by university faculty members.

Joint Committee Appointed To Define Programs Of United Fund Agencies

A joint Community Chest-Community Council committee has been named to define programs of United Fund agencies and establish a plan for determining priority use of the volunteer dollar.

The committee will aid Community Council executive director John Goessman in his task of implementing standards of accounting among the volunteer service agencies, members of the council board of directors were told Wednesday.

Appointed to the committee were Dr. Richard Guilford John Angle and Robert Barlow of the Council and John Alden and Gene Tallman of the Chest.

The committee will recommend to the boards of both groups a "workable framework for setting some priority for use of the community dollar in a broad sense," according to Community Council President Harry Seward.

With implementation of standards of accounting, the groups seek to budget United Fund receipts by program, rather than by agency as a whole, it was noted.

In addition to budgeting improvements, the groups will be able to see if and what community service needs are being met and recognize duplication of services.

Goesmann explained that the committee would review and approve agencies' stated major objectives, review and approve identified service elements performed by the agencies, and classify the program service categories according to recognized program groupings.

The executive director indicated that it would be a minimum of one year and possibly two before the Chest and Council are able to see that a specific amount is being spent, for example, for mental health services by a variety of agencies.

W. German Pilot Of Starfighter Dies In Crash

Bonn (UPI) — An American-built West German F104 Starfighter jet crashed in the Kattegat near the Danish island of Anholt Wednesday, killing the pilot.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said the pilot ejected the plane, which was on a low-flying training flight, but died en route to a hospital after being rescued about an hour after the crash.

It was the 87th West German Starfighter to crash.

Haller Is Fined In Traffic Death

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha man has been fined $1,000 and placed on probation for two years on a charge of motor vehicle homicide. Michael Haller appeared before District Judge John Murphy.

Haller, 43, had pleaded no contest to the charge in connection with the traffic death in September of 1967 of Mrs. Anna Opocensky, 59, of Omaha.

Altered Plans Save 3 Trees On NU Campus

What was reported as 3,000 signatures on petitions to save three trees from University of Nebraska campus construction didn't even get to the chancellor before it was announced that plans had been changed.

Chancellor Clifford Hardin reported that the location of a sidewalk on the edge of the proposed sculpture garden would be altered so that three trees would not have to be removed.

The chancellor said that the NU Central Planning Committee made the decision this week to change the construction plans after students protested removal of the trees, circulating petitions before and after the football game Saturday.

However, Hardin said, administrative officials had been concerned about removal of the trees since the architectural plans for the sculpture garden had been released.

The garden site is the area surrounded by the Sheldon Art Gallery, Woods art building, Architecture Hall and the new music building.

Late Repentance

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP) — A Pittsburgh woman who declined to identify herself sent $150 to Gov. Raymond P. Shafer as repentance for carrying an illegal bottle of rhubarb wine from Michigan to Pennsylvania during prohibition days, in 1928.

Captives Discussed

Washington (AP) —The State Department said former World Bank President Eugene Black took up with Prince Norodom Sihanouk the question of 11 Americans held captive by the Cambodian government.

GOP Emphasis On Winning Seats In Marginal States

© New York Times Service

Washington — House Republican leaders, who have more than $2 million in campaign funds at their disposal, are putting special emphasis on winning seats in 10 to 15 marginal states so as to assure victory for Richard M. Nixon in the event the presidential election goes to the House.

FORD . . . displays a big gavel.

The leaders discussed aspects of their plan Wednesday at a news conference called to disclose legislative goals for the 91st Congress and to announce they would travel the country before the Nov. 5 election meeting with and campaigning for Republican candidates for the House.

Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House minority leader, and five other members of the Republican leadership acted as if control of the House was within their grasp after 14 years of Democratic rule.

'218' Buttons

They wore "218" buttons on their lapels and behind their beaming faces was a large poster showing Ford greeting a man with "218" in large numerals on his back. The caption said he was "the new, but unknown, Republican congressman who will provide the 218th vote needed for Republican control in the next congress."

In the present House the Democrats have 245 members, the Republicans 187. There are three vacancies.

Privately, Republican strategists agree with the Democrats that control of the next House remains in doubt. But the Republicans also say they could control a majority of the state delegations even if they fall short of the 218 needed to elect the speaker and chairmen of the committees.

House Would Choose

If no presidential nominee receives a majority of votes in the Electoral College, the House would choose the next president from the top contenders. Each state would cast one vote with 26 votes needed to prevail.

"To be absolutely sure of a change in Washington next year," the Republican leader said, "enough Republican congressmen must be elected to make up majorities within at least 26 state delegations — eight more than the Republicans control now."

Negro Makes History In Washington State

Seattle (AP) — Arthur A. Fletcher, who rose from shining shoes and delivering ice in Kansas to gain national attention with his self-help programs for ghetto residents, has made history in Washington politics.

The 6-foot-4, 43-year-old former professional football player became the first Negro in Washington history to win a bid for high state office.

Fletcher a city councilman at Pasco, in southcentral Washington defeated hydroplane race driver Bill Muncey of Seattle in Tuesday's primary election for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

Calling himself a "product of the ghetto," Fletcher said he succeeded by promoting "new action politics for whites, blacks, Indians and pinks."

The man who once played end for the Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts first gained statewide political prominence for his unique self-help programs at Pasco, and he now serves as an adviser to Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon.

In the November election Fletcher will face veteran Lt. Gov. John A. Cherberg. Cherberg, former University of Washington football coach, has held the job since 1956 and won the Democratic nomination Tuesday.

Soggy Weather Overjoys Lincoln Fire Department

Although you may have felt less than exuberant about the downpours this week, the Lincoln Fire Department certainly didn't mind the rain.

In fact, Lincoln firemen are overjoyed by the soggy weather.

Only five fire alarms have been reported during the three-day period of Monday through Wednesday.

Normally the department handles more than that in a single day.

FTC Threat Urged

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Renjamin Rosenthal D-N.Y., urged the Federal Trade Commission to threaten an investigation of new car prices so announced or planned increases for 1969 models will be canceled.

Ever-Urbane Actor, Franchot Tone, Dies

New York (AP) — Franchot Tone 65, ever urbane, ever handsome in a 40-year career in the Broadway theater, Hollywood movies and national television, died Wednesday in his East Side Manhattan apartment.

Tone's death was attributed to lung cancer, for which he had been under treatment for some time. With him was his son, Jefferson, 23. He had another son, Pascal, 25.

Born and bred to wealth and culture, Tone broke away from an affluent background after he was graduated from Cornell University in 1927 with a Phi Beta Kappa key.

Joining a Buffalo, N.Y., and in 1933 was summoned to Hollywood, for the first of a long series of movies.

Hits Hollywood

"Millionaire actor arrives today," was a headline on the West Coast when Tone hit Hollywood. But he was to stock company, Tone later achieved success on Broadway claim later that he arrived broke.

Despite the spicy off-stage facets of Tone's career, he remained essentially a serious, intent intellectual at home in conversations on economics, politics and art.

'Advise And Consent'

Tone went to Hollywood after his Broadway performance in "Success Story," and his first film appearance was in "Gabriel over the White House." Other picture credits included "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "The Bride Wore Red," "Advise and Consent," and, in 1964 "La Bonne Soupe."

Tone's Hollywood career was somewhat less than impressive until his 1935 marriage to Joan Crawford, internationally known as one of the movie's biggest stars. Their romance began when they worked together in the picture "Today We Live." They were divorced in 1939.

FRANCHOT TONE

Phi Beta Kappa

Tone next married Actress Jean Wallace, in a union that produced two sons. After seven years they were divorced in 1948.

Beaten Up

The biggest headlines, however, were reserved for Tone's third marriage, to actress Barbara Payton, who died last year at 38. Two weeks before their 1951 wedding, Tone, then 47, was beaten up by a younger actor, Tom Neal, in a fight over Miss Payton's affections.

Lloyds of London, in answering a subsequent suit by Tone to collect insurance for his injuries, maintained he had provoked the fight and exposed himself to danger "while in a state of intoxication."

Tone's marriage to Miss Payton ended the next year.

Tone once was fined $400 for spitting in the eye of Hollywood columnist Florabel Muir, during an encounter in Ciro's Hollywood night club. Tone apologized in court for his action.

Tone's last marriage was in 1956 to actress Dolores Dorn-Heft, more than 30 years his junior. They were divorced in 1959.

Status Of Welfare Issues Reviewed

A former state senator reviewed the status of welfare legislation being prepared for the 1969 Legislature at a Wednesday meeting of the southeast chapter of the Nebraska Welfare Association.

Arnold Ruhnke reviewed for the group the status of welfare issues now being studied by interim legislative committees.

Union Leaders For Humphrey; Some Members Look To Wallace

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

Flint, Mich. — Big labor, though organically split many ways, has united at the top behind Vice President Humphrey, only to find some of its members going in other directions or immovable. Factory interviews and polls confirm this division.

The United Auto Workers executive board and the resolutions committee of last May's constitutional convention adopted unanimously in Detroit recently a recommendation that the union endorse Humphrey. That rounded out the support of the vice president at the top of the big unions.

The solidarity of political views at the top does not extend to the factory level. The absence of a clear-cut labor issue explains this irony, at least in part.

Union His Life

For the labor leader, the union is a full-time job. Every day he sees economic and social objectives won or lost in the political arena. He feels indebted to Humphrey for years of service. He would like to enjoy those services for four or eight more years.

Young white factory workers, fully employed, with overtime available at premium rates, have few job complaints. Most are too young to look back very far.

The union is a sometime thing. Every three years the auto worker looks to the union to get him a pay raise and in the meantime to process an occasional grievance at the work pl[illegible].

Looking To Wallace

The complaints on which many of these workers are focusing now lie outside the ordinary union function. This disgruntled group, instead of looking to the union to resolve the war and put down the demands of dissident minorities, is looking to George Wallace, who promises to deal swiftly with their grievances.

Most automobile workers will picket the plant at a nod from Walter P. Reuther, but they do not look to the United Auto Workers president for solutions to rioting and the war any more than they expected him to win the pennant for the Tigers.

The union leadership's problem is to get the members to think of Wallace in terms of the work place and the education of their children. This the leaders are trying to do through the Southern Committee on Political Ethics (SCOPE) which uses the address of its Washington public relations firm, Maurer, Fleisher & Zon.

That firm has produced, among other items, a 16-page document called "The Wallace Labor Record."

The former Alabama governor, SCOPE says, "has loaded Alabama's tax structure against the working man and in favor of the rich and well-to-do and the corporations.

"He draws his financial support from some of the biggest union haters in the country. He has kept Alabama's educational system among the poorest in the nation.

"George Wallace has lied to the working man, cheated the working man and double-crossed the working man. Some 'friends!'"

FOOD

for the party hostess

This unusual torte is just perfect for buffet tables. Delectable layers of cheese and deviled ham alternate with Triscuit wafer crumbs. Serve with a snifter of cheese flavored shells and quick-to-prepare snack bites.

4 teaspoons unflavored gelatine
1 cup chicken broth
2 (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
2 eggs, separated
1 (2¼-ounce) can deviled ham
Few drops red food color
1 (2-ounce) jar Pimientos, sliced, well drained, chopped
4 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup (2½ ounces) crumbled blue cheese
1 tablespoon chopped chives or 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
50 Triscuit wafers, finely rolled (about 2¼ cups crumbs)
About 2 midget gherkins, sliced

Sprinkle gelatine over chicken broth to soften; then stir over hot water until dissolved. In large bowl beat together cream cheese and egg yolks. Gradually add gelatine mixture and beat until smooth. Refrigerate until thickened, stirring occasionally; then measure 1 cup and combine with ham, food color and pimientos reserving 1 tablespoon for garnish. Into remaining cream cheese mixture stir 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs, blue cheese, and chives. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Fold one third into ham mixture, remainder into cheese mixture. Spread half of cheese mixture evenly over bottom of a 9-inch spring form pan. Top with 1 cup Triscuit wafers crumbs; spread with ham mixture. Top with another cup crumbs; then with remaining cheese mixture. Refrigerate 4 to 6 hours, or until set. Before serving, garnish with remaining crumbs; remaining eggs, sliced; gherkins and reserved pimientos. Makes 16 (1¾-inch) wedges.

Seafood Sauces

A seafood platter should have its accompanying array of sauces designed to acquaint you with the good flavor and time-saving advantages of frozen breaded seafood.

The ready-to-heat fish and shellfish have been dipped in batter and breaded, and many are partially cooked. All that's left to be done is a brief heating in the oven, broiler or fryer according to package directions.

Among the frozen breaded seafood to be found at fish markets and food stores throughout the country are breaded fish sticks, fish portions, fish puffs, scallops and shrimp. The portions may be labeled "filets," "cutlets," "burgers" or "steaks."

CREAMY ROQUEFORT SAUCE

1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
1 package (3 ounces) Roquefort cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup light cream

Combine cheese in saucepan. Let stand at room temperature until softened. Mash with a spoon. Gradually blend in mayonnaise and cream. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and creamy. Serve hot.

Makes about 1¼ cups.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

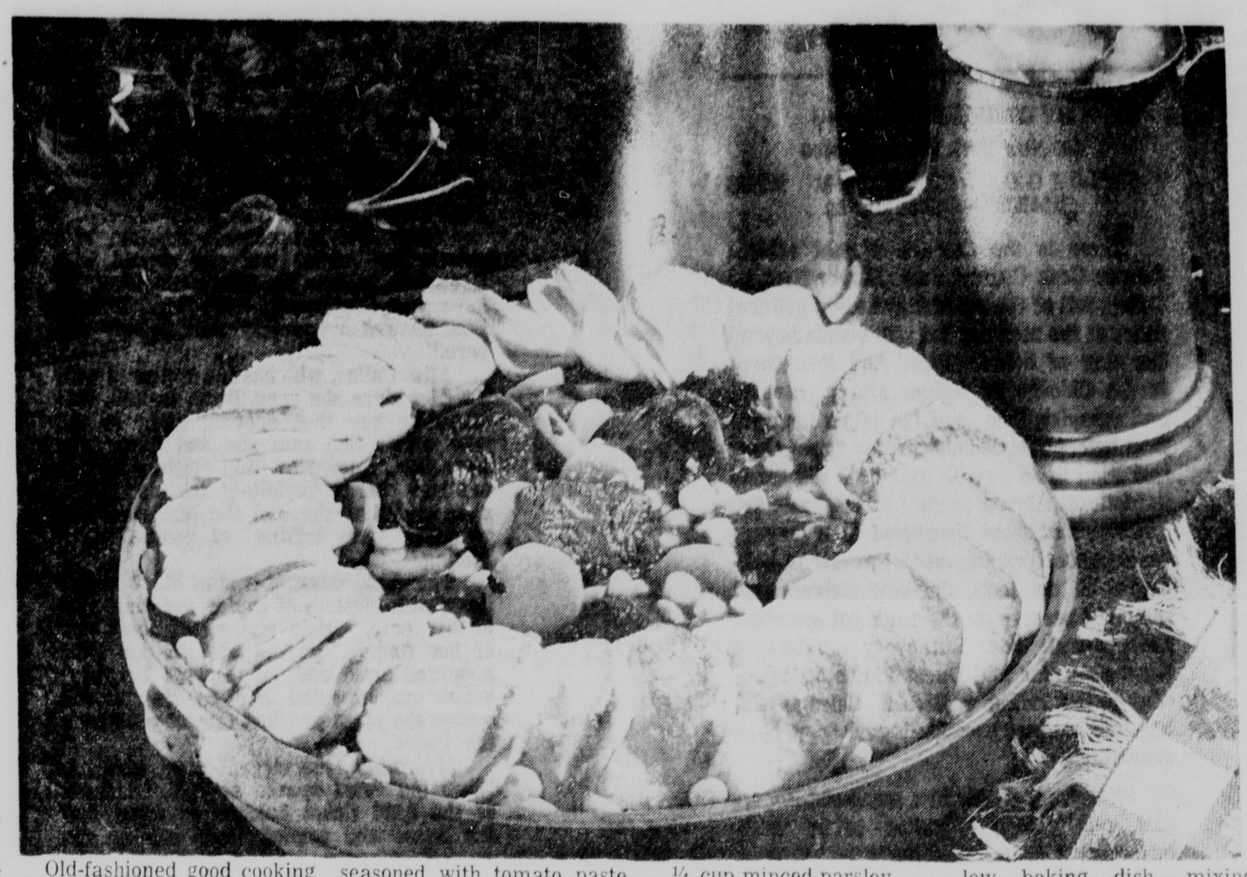
Salt
1 cup (½ pint) plain yoghurt
1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill
1 teaspoon paprika

Using a coarse grater, shred cucumber. Sprinkle with salt and let stand at room temperature for 1 hour. Drain thoroughly. Add yoghurt, dill and paprika; mix well. Chill before serving.

Makes about 1¾ cups.

It's Not Just Another Beef Pie



Old-fashioned good cooking and today's convenience foods enjoy a happy meeting in this succulent, tasty version of an Ole English beef pie.

All the time-consuming steps of this age honored recipe have been eliminated by using modern canned foods. The traditional pastry topping gives way to a handsome edging of refrigerator biscuits. Carrots and corn are ready to add straight from the can and even the most important ingredients, roast beef with gravy, are as easy to use as the vegetables, since the recipe calls for canned roast beef with gravy.

Lean, chunks of canned roast beef come packed in their own gravy, delicately seasoned with tomato paste and onion flavoring. Each twelve-ounce can contains 8 ounces of tender completely roasted beef and 4 ounces of gravy. With such a hearty main dish, menu partners need only be a salad and a beverage.

MODERN AMERICANA BEEF PIE

2 cans (12 oz.) roast beef with gravy
1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn, undrained
½ cup sliced cooked carrots
¼ cup minced parsley
1 tube refrigerator Butterflake rolls
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine roast beef, corn, carrots and parsley in shallow baking dish, mixing well. Separate Butterflake rolls and arrange around edge. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Bake in 350 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot.

Serves 5.

For Cookie Bakers

If you're in a cookie-making mood — and homemade cookies are always the best — try your pans at this new recipe.

BUTTERSCOTCH WHEAT GERM COOKIES

2½ cups unsifted flour
¾ cup wheat germ
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
¾ cup butter or margarine
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. maple flavoring

Measure flour, wheat germ, baking powder and salt onto wax paper. Stir well to blend. Cream sugar, butter, egg and flavorings until light and fluffy. Add blended dry ingredients to creamed mixture. Mix well. Divide dough in half. Shape each half into a roll about 7 inches long and 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper. Refrigerate several hours until firm. Slice with sharp knife to ¼ inch thickness. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 375° for 8-10 minutes or until lightly browned. Yield 4½ dozen cookies.

Sandwiches

ZESTY ITALIAN DOGS — Beat together one egg with ¼ cup tomato sauce. Roll frankfurters in mixture and coat with Italian-seasoned bread crumbs. Place on foil-lined baking sheet. Bake in preheated 350° oven 15 minutes or until hot. Serve on buttered toasted enriched frankfurter rolls sprinkled with finely chopped green onion.

MONTREAL SPECIAL — Here is a fast, easy glazed pork sandwich. Saute Canadian bacon slices. Arrange lettuce leaf and bacon slices on buttered toasted enriched hamburger buns.

"CHICAGO: CITY ON THE MAKE"—Nelson Algren

There is the Chicago of that exalted former Cook County clerk, Mayor Richard Daley, full of the faithful attending political mass at the moment but still visible beyond the ring of barbed wire. And then there is the Chicago of Nelson Algren, novelist and essayist, who took the city's measure long before television's oracles came along and tried to do so with maladroit electronic yardsticks. Algren prefers to celebrate the Chicago that once flourished in a literary renaissance, the second-class citizens half-hidden in the loop, the new strivers and midnight seekers on the wild, yet somehow more moral, side. But every renaissance has its Borgias and Ducal Fiefdoms, including those ruling sealed-off Chicago and heraldic banners proclaiming a happy, open convention.

"For we are now in a gavel-and-fingernail era,' ' Algren writes in a fresh introduction to the new edition of his short classic "Chicago: City On The Make." Anticipating the convention, he says, "Punitive cats have the upper hand . . . you see too many faces that have lost responsibility even toward themselves. These are the faces of occupying troops, and occupying troops make false lovers."

The novelist proves that he is a prescient reporter: his observations originally were made 17 years ago. Then he saw Chicago with somewhat more affection as "a town with the nervous violence of a two-timing bridegroom. Where bulls and foxes live well, but lambs wind up head-down from the hook. A city that divides your heart, leaving you loving the joint for keeps, knowing it can never love you." Now he adds his "Ode to Lower Finksville" as an epilogue.

He does so in black-and-white prose rhythms that tell of honors for the cop who kills the most men in one year, where there is a left-handed stripper in red mesh hose whose stage name is Gaza Strip, a city second to Los Angeles in "the cowardliness of its newspapers and second to Meridian, Miss., in race hate." Where a Picasso sculpture matters less to the citizenry than the story of eight police entrapping one prostitute.

If the general tone is bitter, it is also sentimental and often pertinent. Algren's flights of language still show more love for Chicago than most of the political and literary watch-and-wardheelers recognize. His is still the most original hidden city writing from there today. Even though he escapes once in a while to Paris, San Francisco and New York, Algren remains loyal to the midwestern mistress, returning to check up on the winos drowsy with sweet, Kosher wine, the girls with the swinging shoulder bags, and the men with the golden arms.

In the years since "Chicago: City On the Make" was first published, it has remained under the Chicago counters. But not forgotten. A translation by Jean-Paul Sartre gained the book foreign readers, and the present republication (by an Oakland, Calif., publisher) is largely indebted to interest in Algren and his work abroad. Don't look for it in the vicinity of Mayor Daley's other all-too-real Chicago. Chicago.

It's Really Not What You Hear—It's What You See

BY CHARLOTTE CURTIS

(c) New York Times Service

New York — The Metropolitan Opera had its 84th opening at Lincoln Center Monday night with Maria Callas drawing the cheers in the jampacked lobby while one of her rivals, Renata Tibaldi, prepared to go on stage as the heroine of "Adriana Lecouvreur." But Miss Callas did not consider the evening a homecoming.

"No," the tempestuous soprano said outside the center box she shared with George S. Moore, the Met's president. "I have seen this house before Mr. (Rudolf) Bing showed me around when nobody was here."

Miss Callas, who has not appeared with the Met since she sang Tosca in 1965, was attending her first opening night in the new house. She said she and Bing, who have been known to fling epithets at one another, were "definitely friends" these days and that she and the Met's general manager "are talking, of course we're talking."

The diva, wearing a slim black velvet gown with clusters of rubies and diamonds at her ears, wrists and on at least one of her fingers, arrived at 7:25 p.m. She appeared amid cries of "Brava! Brava!," which accompanied her as she moved across the plaza and into the crowds inside the house.

Meanwhile, the elegant crush was on. When the doors opened at 7:20, hundreds of the 3,800 ticket holders swarmed into the house and pushed their way up the curved white staircase with the scarlet carpeting. They were rushing to secure themselves what is supposed to be the best view.

What they saw, aside from each other, were the celebrities, diplomats, politicians, tycoons, social leaders and other New Yorkers who inevitably attend such openings.

This off-stage crowd, missing scores of elegant stalwarts whose diamonds usually add a certain brilliance to the occasion, was a colorful, sometimes gaudy arrangment of the old and the newly rich — most of whom seemed to have gone to some lengths to make the evening memorable.

Despite serious pleadings from Howard Hook Jr., a Met director who was her escort, Miss Cathy Macauley did in fact go ahead with her plan to wear something different.

She appeared in black crepe culottes, a red vest embroidered with gold and bits of mirror, a plain gold cartier chain and the cat's aluminum leash. Hook had objected to the leash.

Miss Macauley a corn products (Mazola) heiress, said "I was going barefoot but I guess that's not right for the opera.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman solved the early 8 p.m. curtain problem by inviting guests into their Fifth Avenue apartment for a 6 p.m. dinner. That's usually the time the oil industrialist and his wife have their afternoon tea.

"It can't be helped," said Mrs. Wrightsman, who was gowned in a Givenchy red crepe with a feathered jacket. "It's just one of those things."

Mrs. Moss Hart, who in her spare time is either Kitty Carlisle, the actress, or Prince Orlovsky in "Die Fledermaus," was in feathers, too — coral feathers around a matching overskirt with a chiffon dress.

By 6:30 p.m., operagoers who had reservations for dinner at Lincoln Center were out of their Rolls-Royces and Cadillacs and on their way across the plaza and into the various restaurants. Such faithful perennials as Mrs. Lewis W. Douglas, wife of a former ambassador to the Court of St. James, and Mrs. John Barry Ryan, whose father, Otto Kahn, was one of the Met's founders, were among early arrivals.

U Thant, Secretary General of the United Nations, was among those invited to attend the opening. The list also included Roger L. Stevens, President Johnson's cultural adviser.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III were there, too. But the list of absentees was almost as impressive as those who attended. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, the industrialist, was in Hawaii on a vacation with Mrs. Whitney. Mrs. Joseph Lauder, the cosmetics baroness, was in St. Louis on business. Mrs. John R. Drexel III, of the Philadelphia banking family was in Newport, R.I. and Mrs. Mellon Bruce of the Pittsburgh financial family reserved a box and then didn't use it.

What's What In Millinery This Season

A hat never is just something you pop on your head to keep your hair under control, or your sniuses from misbehaving. A hat can be — and should be — a glamorous accessory. It should complete your costume whether it be a sport ensemble — or teems with elegance.

The hat on the left is white fur — a bit of a turned up brim and a height-giving crown. The hat on the right is every glamour girl's dream — soft, black velour, brimmed and veiled.

If Your Husband Says 'No'—Mind Him

By KATHLEEN NEWMEIER

Hollywood (UPI) — What should you do if your husband despises that adorable dress the salesgirl said was "really you" and your best friend said made you resemble Faye Dunaway?

Take it back.

That's the advice of Bill Thomas, a man who has dressed some of the world's most glamorous women in his role as a top Hollywood costume designer.

"Always rely on your husband," Thomas says. "Most men have intuitive good taste and husbands, especially, don't mind voicing an opinion. They have a sure eye for what makes a woman most attractive and they aren't influenced by what happens to be fashionable at the time, if it isn't becoming to the particular woman."

"I think too many women let their clothes wear them. You shouldn't notice a woman's dress before you notice her face. Women seem to forget that fashions are intended to make them more attractive. The greatest compliment a woman can receive is 'how nice you look' not, 'what a pretty dress.'"

Thomas says one of the worst mistakes a woman can make is to take a friend shopping with her. Even your best friend can't help being influenced by what would become her, rather than what is right for you.

As he sees it, the well-dressed woman follows only the fashion trends which suit her. "She should know her own type, and then temper it as styles change. It's not impossible to find what is right for you, even if it isn't the latest thing. It just takes longer."

Thomas also counsels women never to throw anything out unless it is worn to shreds. "Fashions go in cycles and you never know what you may be able to use again," he said.

The designer, a sharply-dressed Lothario type with dark hair and mustache, has been translating his version of what makes a woman lovely onto the screen for more than two decades. He has been nominated for an Academy Award for costume design eight times, and won the Oscar in 1961 for "Spartacus."

In July, the Western Accessories Group honored him with the first annual WAGGY award for "consistent development of the most chic, exciting and tasteful fashion accessories in the motion picture industry."

Thomas is convinced "the correct accessories will make an inexpensive dress look great and the wrong accessories will make the most expensive dress look terrible."

"When I'm shopping for accessories for a film, and I don't find what I had in mind in a dozen stores, I go to two dozen," he said. "You don't have to spend a lot of money on accessories, but you have to spend as much time picking them out as you do selecting the dress.

"Accessories have to complement the dress, so when you buy a dress, buy everything — the whole outfit. When I buy a new suit, I buy shirts and ties to go with it, and that's what women should do, too."

The Chicago native grew up in Los Angeles and studied dramatics at the University of Southern California, where he became interested in the scenic and costume design phase of the theater.

After his discharge from the Air Force, he majored in fashion design at the Los Angeles Art Center, working part-time at Western Costume Company.

"My first assignment there was matching socks," he recalls.

College Course

The University of Missouri is offering an academic course in men's wear. The object: help students dress properly when they graduate and enter business. The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear Inc. makes note of the new course in its latest fashion roundup.

in suburban areas

Although precipitation, clouds and rather chilly winds have given the Capital City a rather gloomy appearance during the past few days, they have done nothing to put a damper on social activities in the various suburban areas. If nothing else, the moisture and accompanying phenomena have provided some good indoor weather, thus giving Lincoln residents time to make plans for all of the festivities that will undoubtedly be coming up this weekend.

As everyone knows, Lincoln will — on Friday and Saturday — once again be invaded by hordes of football fans anxious for another Cornhusker gridiron clash; consequently, entertaining guests will be one of the most frequent suburban pastimes. In Fiene Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Drullinger will fill the roles of host and hostess when they welcome some visitors from Eustis. Arriving on Saturday morning for the game and a weekend stay will be Mrs. Drullinger's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rieker and children, Joyce, Bruce, Rob, and Bryan.

Looking forward to the arrival of a guest late next week are Prairie Valley residents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hudson. Plane-ing in on Saturday, Sept. 28 will be Mr. and Mrs. Hudsons son, Robert E. Hudson, of Santa Barbara, Calif. Mrs. Hudson tells us that her son, an avid horseman, will probably begin his week-long visit in Lincoln, by attending the Nebraska Horse Trails Association competition which will be held Sept. 28 and 29 at Pioneers' Park.

Doing some entertaining in the very recent past were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hartley of Lincoln Heights who had as their guest their granddaughter, Mrs. Carlin Hibbard of Eau Claire, Wis. While her husband has been stationed with the Army in Viet Nam, Mrs. Hibbard has been attending the University of Wisconsin in Madison, from where she received her Bachelors' degree in August.

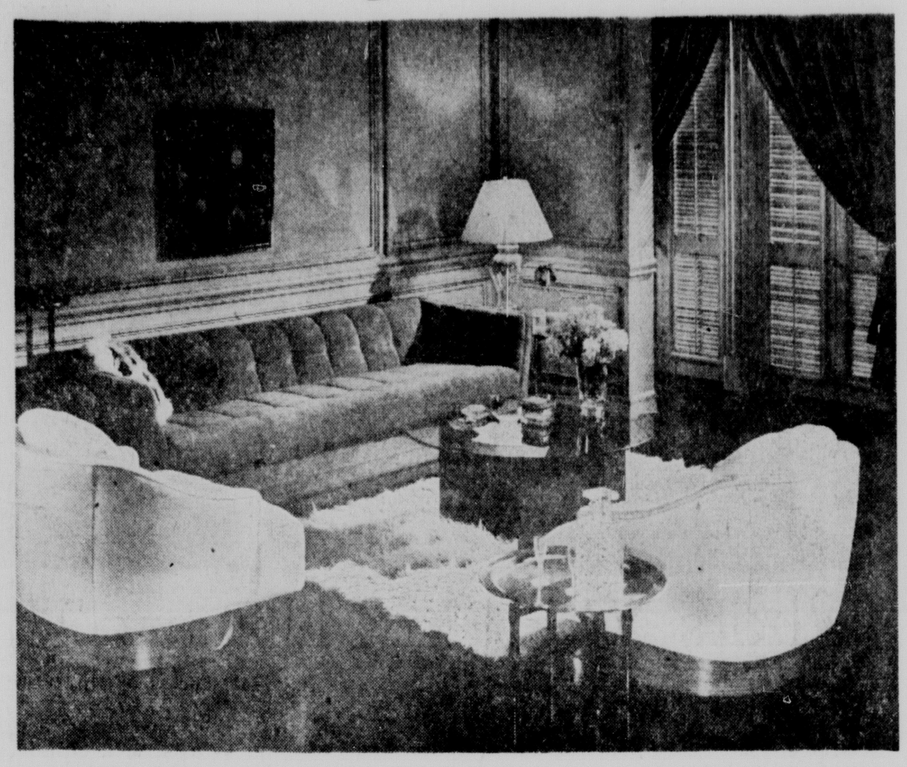
Incidentally, Mrs. Hartley tells us that Lt. Hibbard, also a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, will be returning to the United States next month; and before he begins his practice of law, he and Mrs. Hibbard are planning a trip to Japan.

In addition to once again returning to the normal fall routine of work, school, and music and dancing lessons, Kimballcrest residents Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jiracek and family have had quite a number of extra-curricular activities to keep them busy of late. During the weekend of Sept. 6 they had as their houseguests, Dr. and Mrs. H. Lee Olson and son, Peter, of Springfield, Va. The Olsons were on their way to Boulder, Colo., where Peter is enrolled as a freshman at the University of Colorado. Unable to make the trip because of committments at home were the Olsons' daughters, Suzanne, Maria and Jeanne.

Another pastime at the Jiracek household involves frequent trips to Fremont where they have recently purchased a lake-side cabin. Mrs. Jiracek tells us that daughters, Kimberly and Jennifer, have become quite accomplished water-skiiers!

The other member of the family, Miss Lynne Jiracek, is presently in Los Angeles, Calif., where she is receiving training as a airline stewardess with Continental Air Lines. The four-week course will come to a conclusion on Sept. 26, at which time she will receive her assignment.

Decorating On A Budget



Luxurious fabrics, fine woods, and above all sleek contemporary styling are not necessarily limited to the fortunate affluent society. A well known furniture manufacturer, as part of the budget minded collection, incorporates all these decorating pluses, and more.

This collection was designed to make the most of good styling techniques. Fabrics are all Scotchgarded and therefore last longer, allowing a bolder choice of colors, lighter shades without fearing dirt.

People on a budget are in all age brackets and much modern furniture has been carefully styled to appeal to young and old. Furnishing this budget livingroom (extreme left) was fun and easy. Color and shiny materials did the trick. Offering a good balance of comfortable seating, good lighting, attractive accessories and an easy-to-care-for vinyl floor. Black, Burgundy red and white are the dramatic color highlights, creating sharp contrast and more drama for the room.

The red velvet sofa is not prohibitive in price, and neither are the two barrel chairs.

In den, or library, or even the living room, a table desk lends a distinctive air to the room, and provides a convenient "home office" or quiet reading corner. Black leather swivel chair and leather topped desk create a truly masculine mood with emphasis on simplicity of design. In perfect balance with the desk is a lamp with handsomely turned urn base

The Canfields Learned About Artifacts

BY PHYLLIS BOWEN

Do you know what an artifact is?

An artifact is an object made by human work. The term artifact is usually used by archaeologists when talking about the lives and cultures of ancient people.

But archaeology isn't a common hobby for most Lincoln folks. However one Lincoln couple, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Canfield, have had ample opportunity to develop their interest in the field while Mr. Canfield was Chief Warrant Officer at Anderson Air Force Base in Guam for the past two years.

Mrs. Canfield lived in Guam from June of 1967 to July of this year when her husband retired. Although she had always been interested in nature, Mrs. Canfield had no experience in archaeology before living in Guam. The Canfields' initial interest in the field was encouraged by the base chaplain who had taken up archaeology and digging for artifacts as a hobby.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Canfield display some of the artifacts and souvenirs they have collected during their travels. Mrs. Canfield grasps a stone chisel in her left hand while she holds a sling stone in her right hand. The chisel, sling stone and pebble used as money by the natives of Guam which Mr. Canfield is holding, were colected while they were living in Guam. The prints Mr. and Mrs. Canfield are holding are batik prints done by Mrs. Canfield. Mrs. Canfield studied the process in Taiwan.

While in Guam the Canfields collected items which dated back to 1,500 B.C. Mrs. Canfield describes Guam as "beautiful and very interesting historically. The Japanese called it Honeymoon Island," she adds.

The Canfields have quite a collection of objects from Guam even though they donated the majority of their finds to the University of Guam at Agana, the island's main city, because the University was trying to rebuild its museum which was destroyed in 1963 by typhoon Karen.

One of their literally really big discoveries was a pestle and mortar, stone utensils used for grinding nuts and grains, which weighed over 500 pounds.

As their interest in archaeology increased, Mr. and Mrs. Canfield became so enthusiastic that their diging for objects used by ancient peoples became a weekend hobby. "When the tide was low we dug for artifacts on the beach where the natives had lived and when the tide was in we explored the caves with their original wall writings which are very much like the Indians'," Mrs. Canfield explains.

Some of the treasures they found on their weekend expeditions were stone chisels called adtz which are very similar to Indian tomohawks and sling stones, (egg-shaped stones with points at both ends used by the early people for hunting).

While in Guam, our lady explorer also became interested in batik prints, the oldest Chinese art form, which are made with hot wax and dye. Mrs. Canfield spent 10 days studying batik printing with the head of the art department at the University of Taiwan before returning to Guam to teach batik classes herself.

Since July Mr. and Mrs. Canfield have been living in Lincoln with their son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. Jerald Walker, and visiting son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Guse. The Canfields plan to begin traveling around the United States in October before Mr. Canfield starts upon an as yet undecided second career.

Williamsburg

The strong trend in flower arranging today is the natural look, such as a loose and lovely Williamsburg or Flemish bouquet. You will enjoy creating an arrangement yourself.

Williamsburg bouquets, incidentally, date straight back to this nation's earliest days. When fields and forests were filled with colorful wild flowers free for the picking; when pioneer men and women gave daily attention to their gardens, Williamsburg flower arrangments — strange as this may seem now — were as common an adjunct of daily living as cars and telephones today. Everyone grew and loved flowers.

Here are the basic steps for your Williamsburg arrangement: fill the container of your choice with florists' foam and water, start your arrangement with the tallest blossoms in the center, place other flowers around the center blooms in a line that is fan-shaped, loose, and free. Shorter blossoms are at the base of your bouquet and don't forget generous but tidy use of foliage — boxwood, baker fern, pittisporum, or lemon leaves.

ABBY: —and Henry's still looking

B. Jay Becker

DEAR ABBY: Henry and I have been married for nearly 60 years. Henry is over 80 and he's still looking. Can you beat that?

All our married lives I covered up for him because I didn't want the children to know.

Two years ago Henry moved a nice looking younger lady into one of our rental properties. (She was about 65.) I finally got so tired of having to go over there every time I wanted to find my husband, I gave her notice to vacate. Henry pouted for a long time but he finally got over it.

Now it's another woman. This one is about 60 and a real live wire. Please tell me what to do. I can't do much as all our money is in my husband's name. No publicity, please, as I am a proud woman.

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Be patient. It won't last forever. Nothing does.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old son has informed us that he doesn't want to accept the 4-year academic scholarship offered to him by a fine college this fall. His reason is his 13-year-old girl friend. Abby, this has us baffled. He was always such a sensible boy until he met this girl.

The girl's parents don't seem to mind that our son stays over there until midnight every night. They treat the kids to movies and dinners and let our son use their car to take their daughter driving.

How can we make this girl's parents realize what a dangerous situation they could be pushing their daughter into?

WORRIED PARENTS

DEAR WORRIED: Don't expect the girl's parents to assume the entire responsibility. Go to work on your son and lay down a few rules about how much time he can spend with this girl. Furthermore, a lad who is ready to throw away a 4-year scholarship for a 13-year-old girl has proved himself to be sadly immature. He needs plenty of guidance, and as his parents, it's up to you to guide him.

DEAR ABBY: I have to leave town every few weeks for a day or two for legitimate reasons.

Whenever I am gone, some neighbors (a man and his wife) invite my husband over for a meal.

I have never been invited to this neighbor's home even to share a cup of coffee with the wife. Am I making an issue out of a trivial thing? Or should I be concerned, and why?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Perhaps you are concerned over nothing. As a gesture of appreciation for entertaining your husband, why not invite THEM to your home for a meal?

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

This wild and woolly hand occurred in the match between Venezuela, which finished eleventh in the Olympiad, and Brazil, which finished 23rd.

Venezuela won the match against their South American rivals by a score of 15 victory points to 5, and would have scored a 20-0 win but for a good bidding decision by Porto D'Ave Filho, the Brazilian East in the highly volatile sequence shown.

The Venezuelan South (Onorati) opened the proceedings with six diamonds. West (Assumpcao) competed with six spades, and North (Straziota) properly raised his partner to seven diamonds.

Filho was now faced with a difficult decision. He had no way of knowing whether the Venezuelans could actually make seven diamonds (which they could), or how many tricks seven spades would go down if he chose to bid it.

After much thought he elected to bid seven spades, which was doubled and went down three. The 500-point sacrifice proved well worth while, since Venezuela would otherwise have scored 1,440 points for making seven diamonds. Filho's decision to follow the general rule of bidding one more when in doubt thus paid off handsomely.

The bidding took an entirely different tack at the second table where, with Nahmias and Chagas Filho North-South for Brazil, and Berah and Rossignol East-West for Venezuela, the auction went:

South	West	North	East
Pass !	4♠	4 NT	Pass
5♦	Pass	5♥	Pass
6♦

South's pass as dealer with a ten-card suit showed extraordinary restraint, and his five diamond response to North's four notrump bid was equally restrained. However, the effect of these bids was that South bought the hand for six diamonds, and the net result was that Brazil gained 420 points (9 international match points) on the deal.

Josephine Lowman Answers Your Questions

Q. HELP! I need somebody, and I hope I've come to the right place, I am 15 years old and weigh 123 pounds. My measurements are bust 33 inches, waist 28 inches and hips 35 inches. My figure is unbelievable! If you can't help me it's useless. Just call me the Real Wallflower.

A. Hello, Real Wallflower. You came to the right place, but you didn't tell me how tall you are. One hundred and twenty-five pounds is just right if you are 5 feet 6 inches tall. I think it is likely that you will just naturally slim down some in the waistline and increase in bust size during the next year or so.

However, if you are overweight watch your diet for a loss of pounds. If you do not weigh too much, then bring your figure into lovelier proportions with exercise. In either event, exercise is a great help. Take exercises to increase the bust measurement a couple of inches and also some to decrease the waist measurement two or three inches.

Q. People keep telling me that if you drink lemon juice every morning it will make you lose weight. One friend who has lost quite a few pounds says that she didn't even count calories, or try to diet, but just drank the juice of a lemon every morning.

A. It is appropriate that this question comes on Friday, the 13th, because it is bad luck for you that I cannot tell you that your friend knows what she is talking about.

She may be perfectly honest, or she may be indulging in just a bit of artistic exaggeration, but no one ever lost weight because of drinking the juice of one, or more lemons. She evidently was weight-conscious and eager to lose, and without definitely planning to, cut her food intake. This can happen without counting calories.

Q. Is the bicycle ride exercise reducing to the hips?

A. This is an all-round excellent exercise for the entire leg. It will firm and normalize leg contour. However I do not classify it as a hip reducer.

Q. Both my husband and I are dieting. We are both overweight. He insists that he should cut his calories as low as I do mine. I think he needs more even on a reducing diet. Since he has started cutting his food so low he is irritable and tired and doesn't look well. Who is right?

A. You are. Men do usually need a few hundred calories more because of their greater stature. Your husband should probably have around 1600 calories a day, maybe a couple of hundred more, depending on his build and physical activity.

Wedding Takes Place In New York Gallery

(c) New York Times Service

New York — Not many brides say their marriage vows beneath a calder mobile, stand in a receiving line with their backs to a major Picasso and two perfectly good Chagalls, and end up their wedding reception dancing among dozens of other Picassos, Chagalls, Vlamincks, Dufys, Utrillos, Modiglianis, Legers and Miros.

But then no other bride is Katherine Margaret Perls, daughter of Klaus G. Perls, the art dealer and collector, and Mrs. Perls.

For their daughter's marriage to Pete Farwell Rousmaniere last Saturday afternoon the logistics were different.

The Perls live in a seven-story Madison Avenue townhouse, which is also their art gallery, and it is hard to tell where the gallery ends and the home begins. Yet they did figure out a place for the civil ceremony.

The wedding procession from the third floor to the second floor was down a staircase hung with two Picasso drawings, a Miro tapestry, a Calder sketch and one of the few Calder mobiles that clanks as it moves. Then it crossed a hallway, filled with sculpture, flowers and guests, and into what is ordinarily the Perls's dining room.

Judge Millard L. Midonick of New York's Family Court officiated. He stood beneath the black calder mobile near the French windows. A huge red Calder hung over some of the 150 guests. It was a civil ceremony, the bride's father explained, because "neither the bride nor the bridegroom are religious."

The bride, a Radcliffe college graduate, wore a traditional full-length gown of ivory peau de soie with a chapel train and an heirloom Rosepoint lace veil. She carried lillies-of-the-valley, orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Alexandra Kallenberg was maid of honor and 10-year-old Katherine Rousmaniere, the bridegroom's sister, was the flower girl. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rousmaniere of Oyster Bay, N.Y.

Richard K. Spencer was best man. Ushers included John P. Rousmaniere and David M. Rousmaniere, brothers of the bridegroom; Nicholas Perls, a brother of the bride; Ernest Attah of Nsukka, Nigeria; Rufus Peebles of Cambridge, Mass.; H. Kimbrough Marshall of Milton, Mass., and John H. Page Jr. of Lloyd Harbor, N.Y.

The reception was held in the first floor gallery, where the guests could examine such art works as Chagall's "Le Peintre Amoreux." It shows a bride in the arms of a scarlet figure that may very well be an amorous painer.

That painting, along with others in the same gallery, is for sale. Virtually all the other works are part of the Perls's personal collection.

The buffet supper was served upstairs beneath the mobiles. There was music and dancing. And after it was all over, Mr. and Mrs. Rousmaniere said they were going to Iceland.

"We like islands," the bride explained. "We only have a week."

Rousmaniere was graduated from Gorton School and attended the University of Ibedan in Nigeria. He expects to be graduated from Harvard, where he is a member of the Spee Club and Lampoon, in 1969. He is majoring in government. His father is executive director of the United Negro college fund.

Before going to Radcliffe, the bride attended the Dalton School. She plans to enter the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this fall.

"My Compliments To The Chef–Computer"

By JAMES J. DOYLE

Corvallis, Ore. (UPI) — You finish dinner, take a last sip of coffee and announce: "Give my compliments to the computer for a fine meal."

Crazy, you say?

Computers already are being used for menu planning in Veterans' Administration Hospitals and the day is not far off, reports Prof. Virginia Harger of Oregon State University (OSU), when they will be handmaidens to dietitians.

Miss Harger wasn't thinking of your favorite restaurant, or the housewife, when she demonstrated use of computers in menu planning.

Data processing could be used, she indicated, wherever large groups of people must be fed — and fed well.

For the demonstration, OSU's computer was hooked up with a similar installation at Tulane University Hospital in New Orleans.

The long-range computer channel involved the use of certain "constraints" imposed by the dietitians. First, the computer considered adequate calories, protein, minerals and vitamins.

The professionals insisted that color, flavor and texture of foods also be included and said the same dishes could not be used too closely together.

The first day's menu was sent back from the computer hookup and the dietitians quickly spotted a flaw. The menu consisted of a frankfurter, navy bean soup and a baked bean casserole.

That was just too many beans.

Craig Claiborne Finds Some Special Commuters

BY CRAIG CLAIBORNE
(c) New York Times Service

Mamaroneck, N.Y. — Custom has it that most commuters on the New Haven Railroad rush home each evening to charcoal steak and baked beans. Or an evening's outing to the nearest clam bar, pizza palace or spaghetti emporium.

But when the 6:55 pulls into Mamaroneck, Lionel and Marion Braun frequently dash off to the likes of Vitello Tonnato, lobster with mayonnaise, poached chicken or pot au feu.

Both the Brauns are successful advertising executives in Manhattan, and Marion Braun's idea of relaxation after a day's pace on Madison Avenue is to toss a fresh striped bass into a court bouillon flavored with leeks, and parsley and peppercorns.

"On Saturdays," Mrs. Braun says, "we plan a weeks menus. I find when Lionel will be home an plot the menus — what's to come from the butcher, fishmonger, grocer and greengrocer. That's better than wandering mindlessly through supermarkets.

"On weekends, I can make a couple of long dishes, like the Vitello Tonnato, that keep well through the week, or we cook something that freezes well. Nothing freezes better than Beef Bourguignon.

"In summertime we have lots of gazpacho, made with local tomatoes," which most tomato enthusiasts agree have been fantastic this year.

The Brauns occupy a terrace apartment with expensive and formidable views of lush greenery that extend to the horizon, Mamaroneck Bay and the Mamaroneck Boat Basin.

The terrace in the summer serves as a dining area and beyond one vine-covered wall is a room with a roof that is "more or less" mansard. That is where the Brauns keep their vintage still and sparkling wines.

Mrs. Braun is a devoted pupil of Dione Lucas, who, she says, "started the whole fine cooking business in America" many years ago.

Mrs. Braun was associated with Mrs. Lucas for more than eight years, and the admiration was mutual. One of Mrs. Braun's treasures is a cookbook inscribed by the Cordon Bleu cook to "My very best and most beautiful pupil." A fine compliment indeed.

For formal dinners, which might include boned quails stuffed with foie gras and garnished with green grapes, breast of chicken jeanette or chicken with tarragon, the menus are frequently hand printed by the host. One of their recent dinners included the tarragon chicken and an English trifle perfumed with spirits which, the hostess explained, has an interesting history.

Here is Mrs. Braun's recipe (with a bow to Mrs. Lucas) for chicken tarragon.

POULET A L'ESTRAGON

- 1 three-and-one-half to four pound chicken
- 10 tablespoons butter
- 1 sprig fresh tarragon
- 6 peppercorns
- salt to taste
- ⅓ cup calvados or applejack
- 1 teaspoon finely minced garlic
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped shallots
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh tarragon
- 3 mushrooms, finely chopped
- freshly ground pepper to taste
- ½ teaspoon tomato paste
- ½ teaspoon fresh or bottled meat glaze
- 2 teaspoons potato flour
- 1 cup rich chicken broth, fresh or canned
- ⅓ cup dry white wine
- ¼ cup sherry wine
- ¼ cup marsala wine
- 1 teaspoon currant jelly
- 3 whole mushroom caps
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

1. Preheat the oven to 375 degrees.

2. Dry the chicken with paper towels. Reserve the chicken liver. Place in the cavity of the chicken two tablespoons of the butter, the tarragon, peppercorns and salt to taste. Truss the chicken with string or skewers.

3. Heat four tablespoons of the butter in a heavy skillet and when it is hot, brown the chicken on all sides, first on the breast, sides and back. This should be done over fairly low heat until skin is golden brown. Take care that the skin does not break. When thoroughly browned, add the calvados and ignite it. When the flame dies, remove the chicken from the skillet. Leave the pan juices in the skillet.

4. Add to the skillet two tablespoons of butter, the garlic, shallot, tarragon and chopped mushrooms. Season with pepper but do not add salt. Simmer two or three minutes.

5. Remove the skillet from the heat and stir in the tomato paste, meat glaze and potato flour. Stir with a whisk until well blended and add the chicken broth, white wine, sherry, marsala, jelly and pepper. Taste for seasoning and, if needed, add salt. Place the skillet over moderate heat and bring to the boil, stirring. Return the chicken to the skillet. Place the chicken in the oven and bake 35 to 40 minutes, basting frequently.

6. While the chicken bakes, cook the whole mushroom caps in one tablespoon of the butter over low heat. Sprinkle with the lemon juice, salt and pepper. Transfer the musrroom caps to the small bowl and add the remaining tablespoon of butter to the skillet. Add the chicken liver and cook it until done on all sides. When the chicken is done, transfer it to a platter and garnish, preferably on decorative skewers, with the mushroom caps and chicken liver. The chicken may be carved at the table with the sauce served separately or it may be carved in the kitchen and the sauce spooned over. In the latter case, do not bother with the decorative skewers but use the mushroom caps and livers for garnish.

Yield: four to six servings.

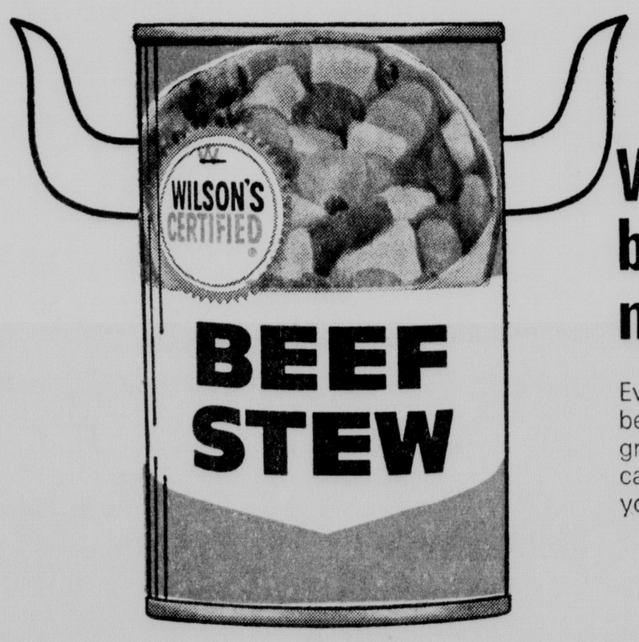
So much beef it's liable to start a stampede

For "seconds", that is. Wilson's Certified Bif is 100% beef including steaks and roasts. Flavor and meaty nutrition come together in Bif. So have yourself a Bif stampede. You'll eat it up.

Only ours has hickory smoked flavor

Wilson's Certified Mor is 100% pork and protein rich from the Corn Country. Exclusive hickory smoked flavor. Good right out of the can hot or cold. Mm-m-m.



When Wilson says beef stew, Wilson means beef stew

Every can has hefty bites of lean flavorful beef. And lots more. Good, rich brown gravy. Garden fresh peas, onions and carrots. Firm white potato cubes. Just like you'd make stew if you had time.

News For Powdered, Brown Sugar

Powdered sugar and brown sugar are now available in new conveniently-sized, sturdy plastic bags holding 2 pounds each — that's the good news in the cane sugar section of your local supermarkets.

As you know, the big problem with both these popular products has always been moisture. To avoid hardening and lumping, powdered sugar needs to have moisture kept OUT, while brown sugar needs to have its own natural moisture kept IN. The new see-through, moisture resistant packages take care of both requirements very nicely.

After the bag is opened, it's easy to keep these sugars soft, smooth, and lump-free down to the last spoonful. Just tightly close the bag and fasten it with a rubber band or wire "twistem."

Next time you go marketing, prepare for fall baking and the holidays ahead. Stock up with sugars in the new 2-pound clear-paks. See and fell the soft fresh goodness that lasts and lasts.

To celebrate this happy solution to a troublesome problem and to fill the after-school cooky jar, here are two outstanding cooky recipes. You'll find more good recipes printed on the sugar packages. — These for instance.

JEAN'S POWDERED SUGAR COOKIES

½ cup shortening
½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups powdered sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon each soda and cream of tartar
1 cup chopped pecans

Cream shortening and butter; gradually add powdered sugar, creaming well. Add egg and flavorings. Beat until fluffy. Sift flour with soda and cream of tartar; add and mix well. Stir in pecans. Drop small spoonfuls (or shape into small balls or crescents) on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 400 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes, or until creamy tan in color. While hot, roll in powdered sugar. Makes 6½ to 7 dozen tender cookies.

APPLESAUCE DROP COOKIES

1 cup raisins
1 cup thick applesauce
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup shortening
1 egg, unbeaten
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 cup chopped nuts

Mix raisins and applesauce; set aside. In mixing bowl combine sugar, shortening, and egg; beat until fluffy. Stir in applesauce and raisins. Sift flour with salt, soda, and spices; add and mix well. Stir in nuts. Drop the soft dough by rounded teaspoonfuls about 2" apart on greased baking sheets. Bake at 375 degrees for 14 to 15 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen soft cookies which keep unusually well due to the pectin in the applesauce.

Party Is Courtesy For Bride-Elect

Honoring a bride-elect in the traditional fashion was Miss Janiece Kaufman when she entertained Tuesday evening, Sept. 17, at a kitchen shower for Miss Rosemary Hinkle whose marriage to Daniel J. Sharp will be Saturday, Nov. 2. Friends and co-workers of Miss Hinkle gathered to wish her well.

Meeting Planned

Members of the PTA at Merle Beattie School, 19th and Calvert Sts., will hold the first meeting of the 1968-69 school year next Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 24 at 1:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. Included on the afternoon's agenda is a get-acquainted coffee.

Dinner

The 47th Annual Founders' Commemoration dinners of the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln will be held next Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, at 6:30 o'clock in the Hotel Cornhusker. The program theme will be "A World-wide View."

The News Around Town

Someone called and said—"It's just something we heard, but we thought you might like to check on it." Check on it we did and found that Miss Jane Pope, whose original home town is Sutton, and who was graduated from the University of Omaha, and who received her library science degree from Denver University — and who now is supervisory consultant to the Nebraska Public Library Commission — had married Norman Geske, director of the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery.

We were told that the cermony took place in the offices of Justice of Peace, Paul Habarlan at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

It was a well guarded secret, and apparently Mr. Geske wanted to be sure they were a long way from home before the story was told. They left almost immediately for Venice, Italy.

* * *

Saturday night is diner and dance night for the members of the Stardusters Club, who will open their season with a dinner dance at Hotel Lincoln.

A guest couple for the party, which will be held in the Terrace Room, and which has the fascinating theme of "Football Follies," has a guest couple — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Heuertz.

* * *

And of course Saturday is another football day, and while we suspect that Mrs. Ben Galloway of Denver just might have planned a Lincoln visit on the day, we have the feeling that the visit and the party were sort of planned.

In case you need to be reminded Mrs. Galloway is the former Jean Morrison, daughter of former Gov. and Mrs. Frank Morrison now of Omaha. Mrs. Galloway is visiting her parents at the moment, but since Dr. Galloway was called for military duty, her plans are a bit uncertain. She will, however, continue to reside in Denver.

The plans that have no uncertainty revolve around a party on Saturday morning when Mrs. Jerry Polick and Mrs. Clinton Condon pay courtesy to an old friend at a coffee at the home of Mrs. Polick.

No Giggles

BY ENID 'EMY

New York — Bernard Lanvin took a walk along Fifth Avenue one day last week in his "new classic" suit of brown-striped tan worsted. The four-button, close-fitting jacket had narrow lapels and diagonal pockets; the vest was cut straight across, rather than angled; the slim trousers were shorter in the front than in the back, and a fractional flare began a few inches from the bottom.

No one stared. Lanvin was delighted. It proved his point that men's fashion should fall somewhere between the extreme and the status quo.

"I believe in elegance and newness," said the 32-year-old executive vice president of the House of Lanvin in Paris. "I don't believe in wearing the extremes that make everyone turn around, stare and giggle."

MISS JUDY KAYE DVORAK

The engagement of Miss Judy Kaye Dvorak of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Dvorak of Brainard, to Melvin A. Hain, also of Lincoln and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hain of Dwight, is announced this morning by the bride-elect's parents.

Tourist Crowds Enjoy Israel

BY TERENCE SMITH
(c) New York Times Service

Jerusalem—Now more than half way through the vacation season, Israel is awash with a record flow of tourists who are staying longer and spending more than ever before. In excess of 400,000 visitors are anticipated this year compared with the 291,000 who came here in the months before and after the six-day war last June.

All existing records were shattered in July, when 68,000 visitors arrived. This equals the total that visited Israel in the 12 months of 1958, the year she celebrated her 10th anniversary as a state.

The tourist invasion has glutted all the facilities here. The airport has a subway rush-hour frenzy throughout the day, and the hotels are operating at full capacity.

Each day, scores of tourists, mostly young people, have been arriving without advance hotel reservations. In recent weeks, many have spent their first night sleeping on the lawn in front of the main building at Lydda Airport or on the Tel Aviv beaches.

To handle the crush, the Ministry of Tourism arranged to put some of the overflow in the unoccupied Soviet Embassy in Ramat Gan, near Tel Aviv. The Russian mission pulled out shortly after the war last June, when the Soviet Union severed relations with Israel.

The ministry has also acted to block any precipitous price increases as a result of the heavy demand. Discussions were held with the Hotel Owners Association, which has agreed not to increase rates through December, 1969.

Meir Deshalit, director general of the Ministry of Tourism, believes that several factors are responsible for the sudden upsurge in visitors to Israel. He cited the emotional impact of the six-day war, the lure of the country's 20th anniversary celebrations, the intensive advertising campaign that Israel has conducted abroad and the reduced air fares. Although charters are still not allowed from many parts of the world, El Al, the Israeli Airline, has instituted special round-trip group fares that begin at $399 from New York in the off season.

"I also think a great many people are coming because they can see both sides of Jerusalem now without crossing through the Mandelbaum Gate," Deshalit said. "The average length of stay in Jerusalem used to be less than two days. This year, it is closer to five."

The tourists who are coming this year are spending more time in Israel than their predecessors. The average stay in the country used to be 11 days; not it is 14. This year's tourist is also spending more money.

The combination of these factors — the unusually long length of stay and the high average expenditure — has made tourism Israel's second largest foreign currency-earning industry. The export of citrus fruit, which brings in about $85 million a year, is first, but tourism is a close second. This year, it is expected to attract $75 million.

Nearly all the tourists in this year's bumper crop have visited the Arab territories occupied by Israel during the war. Organized bus tours are combing the west bank of the Jordan, the Golan Heights of Syria and the Gaza Strip, and thousands of visitors have inspected the Sinai Desert by car and plane.

For the hardy, there are six-day tours of the desert that include a swim in the Red Sea off Sharm El Shiekh. Judging from the current attitude here toward keeping the Arab territories, Israel should be able to offer the same attractions to visitors again next summer.

Organizations Begin Seasons

Tours of the Governor's Mansion will follow the guest membership tea of the Lincoln branch of the American Association of University Women on Saturday, Sept. 28 at 10 o'clock.

Following the tea and tours, Mrs. Dana Mills will entertain members and their guests, who will be prospective members, with guitar playing and folk singing. Mrs. Edwin Hart, the group's president, will welcome the guests.

Explaining the four main areas of interest studied by AAUW will be Mrs. Merle Hamilton speaking on community problems, Mrs. Ray Zeisset on education, Miss Esther Montgomery about cultural interests and Miss Mary Guthrie on world problems.

Mrs. John Engelman will give a brief talk inviting guests to join AAUW. Mrs. Merrill Cook, program chairman, and Miss Ruth Sittler, social chairman, are in charge of arrangements for the tea.

Although the calendar year goes from January to December, Lincoln organizations and clubs seem to plan their year from September to August, so this month marks the beginning of many activities and plans for the year.

Beta Sigma Phi City Council will hold its first city-wide event on Sunday, November 10, when it has its Initiation Tea for new rushees. The annual tea for all new rushees is usually a gala, formal event welcoming and initiating new members.

Other plans for the year will be selection of a service project, voting for the City Council Valentine Queen to be crowned at the annual Valentine's Dance, and observance of Founder's Day which is April 30.

Last year Gov. Norbert Tiemann proclaimed the week of April 26 to May 3 as Beta Sigma Phi Week in Nebraska, and the members are hoping the governor will again honor Beta Sigma Phi with a similar proclamation this year.

Beta Sigma Phi City Council is composed of representatives from the four degrees possible in the organization, Nu Phi Mu, Ritual of Jewels, Exemplar and Exemplar Preceptor.

We Hear That

This morning we'd like to extend a welcome to four of Lincoln's newest residents, Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Beran, their son Stephan and daughter Sheila. The Berans moved into their new home at 4140 Starr St. Monday, Sept. 9, arriving from Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Mr. Beran is employed at Lincoln Air Park West.

Orientation Program

A Volunteer Orientation Program will be held next Tuesday evening, Sept. 24, at 7:30 o'clock in the main auditorium of the Lincoln State Hospital. The speaker for the evening will be Dr. Beverley Mead who is the chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the Creighton University School of Medicine in Omaha. All interested persons are invited to attend.

This Is The Era Of The Ladylike Leg

Hail the return of the ladylike leg — the elegant little foot. The message for Fall-Winter 1968-1969 is pretty and restrained. Which is not to say legs are not going to be conversation pieces, feet no less of a fashion story.

The total look for fashion this year requires the right shoe and the right stocking for every occasion. And the beginning of any hosiery wardrobe, according to the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, is to plan ahead and suit the hosiery to the shoe.

For the bewildered women who have clung to the last ditch to beige, beige and more beige, come on in! The fashion's fine and a little pre-planning, as much as it takes to put together a small cocktail party, will set you up all season long.

Think country shoes for town or country when the look is pants, or tweeds. And tweeds are in. And, think bulkier looking hosiery, with a pattern, but not heavy legs at all. The best look is the silky hand agilon with a fine rib, and perhaps a clock right up the front of the leg.

If you think your legs are not for fancy hose, forget it. The clock with a bulky heel, worn with a shiny two toned leather shoe slims the leg handsomely and looks just right with the bold tweeds and town woolens.

The vertical pattern for hosiery is equally important in the 1968-69 version of the beloved petit point. This year the pattern is one of vertical scallops, or, widely spaced lace variations on a herringbone. They are designed to be worn with the little leather dressmaker shoe and either suit or daytime wools. They can be used for the dress up wools as well . . . but not for party fare.

Parties call for the embroidered leg, a trellis of rosebuds on fine almost cobweb sheer. Wear it with a little two toned leather in pastel colors to match your derss. Be sure the heel is a chunky 1½ or 2 inches and the toe rounded and slightly built up.

Colors . . . any neutral tone, or dark legs, or smoky colors of wood, green, burgundy, but not white. The look of the leg is decorated, subdued, elegant, and part of the whole.

MISS BEVERLY BURK

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Verniece Burk of the engagement of their daughter, Beverly, to David L. Lyman, son of Mrs. Mary Lyman.

No wedding date has been named.

Mr. Lyman is a former student at the University of Nebraska and now is attending the Nebraska Vocational Technical School at Milford.

Ideals For Inexpensive Holiday Gifts

Colorful Underbed Chests: Brightly colored red, gold, avocado green, pink or turquoise metal underbed chests can now coordinate with room color schemes. Durable construction assures permanent protection for clothes year 'round.

Hamper Chest: Stylish walnut woodgrained steel hamper chest, 34" high x 20" wide x 12" deep, can be used in any room. The self closing hinged hamper compartment and drawer at the top are odorless and rustproof.

Shoe Butler: Sturdy gold tubular steel frame 45" high x 17" wide x 8½" deep, has slanted platforms with heel guards to hold 12 pairs of shoes. It is free standing with plastic tips to protect floors.

Fun Pillows: Unique styling makes "shapely beauties" out of machine washable soil resistant pillows covered in a percussion of crisp abstract prints. The unusual shapes include — tear drops, crescents, arrowheads, amoebas and many others. There are also screen printed reproductions of presidential campaign button pillows, 15" in diameter, and there will even be 1968 Democratic and Republican nominee pillows after the conventions.

Pop Art Lamps: Great gift ideas as well as a decorating help, are cleverly designed lamps with natural burlap shades which appear to be a mirage of a Heinz Bottle or a Schlitz Bottle but are really only rockstone.

Convert-A-Phone: European styled telephone and receiver metal cover for standard phones will delight the woman of the house. It is finished with an antique gold and twisting vine motif for a decorative effect.

Orbital Sunglasses: Launching a super space age look will be ultra-thin metal frames incorporating a new weightless nose-piece in gold or silver to complement jewelry and called Moon Scanner — TV screen shape; Moon Maid — super large and round tinted lenses; Take-Off — aviator goggle's oval shape; Optigon-octagon styling. Other new sunglass tyles come with tinted lenses, various color frames in super oval Lunar Look or Inverted Telesol lenses to avoid touching lashes.

Zodiac Sachet Boudoir Ensemble: Everyone is intrigued with their own horoscope and zodiac signs today. Now sachet squares and wafers to tuck in drawers, closet hangers, sto-way and jewel week-ender cases are printed with the twelve signs for each month — excellent gift idea for holiday and birthdays. The pretty white background coordinates with every decor.

Spectrum Specs: Rimles sunglasses look sensational with soft tinted lenses in pink, blue, yellow, apricot, grey, brown, lime, lavender or red. There are a multitude of lens shapes as well to accent every face. Nose and ear sections are gold finished metal and each sunglass comes individually packaged in a special hard case for protection.

Satin Dress Hanger Set: Mother or grandmother would love a gift of six shirred satin dress hangers in twelve fashion colors to suit her color preferences. The hangers are beautifully handmade, thickly padded and have a matching bow and braid covered hook. They are also all ready packaged in a pretty white gift box lined with tissue.

Double Eyeglass Case: Any woman who wears glasses would love to receive an elegant satin or colorful cotton double eyeglass case. Two inside velvet lined pockets expand to hold reading and sun glasses without crowding. A three sided, zippered closure gives added protection.

Tuck-Aways: Superb ideas for keeping mad-money safe are petite lace trimmed purses of washable nylon or rayon that tuck into a bra or fasten to a garter. And, there is even a drawstring purse to protect jewelry. Available in pink, white or black.

New Suit Hangers: 24Kt gold finish lends new beauty to hangers that are formcontoured at the neck and shoulders to keep garments wrinkle-free. Plastic tips help garments stay on hanger and large diameter tubing avoids fold marks. The woman's version has a bottom cross bar and plastic tipped clips for skirts and the man's hanger comes with plastic covered trouser bar.

Overzealous Fans Leave Mess In Their Wake With Wild Tiger-Town Pennant Celebration

Detroit (AP) — The champagne bottles were cleared away and the grass and outfield fences at Tiger Stadium were repaired Wednesday in the wake of an emotionally exhausting celebration of the Detroit Tigers first American League pennant in 23 years.

Thousands of Tiger fans celebrated at the ball park and in downtown Detroit after the Tigers wrapped up their American League title with a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday night.

Usually sedate Tiger owner John Fetzer found himself dumped in the Tigers' whirlpool bath and Manager Mayo Smith got the same treatment as the Tigers celebrated by tossing players, newsmen and anyone else they could get hold of into the whirlpool or dousing them with champagne.

Thousands of the 46,000 fans who saw the Tigers pennant clincher rushed onto the field to mob the players and evidence of their baseball fever was abundant Wednesday.

Tiger officials said large sections of sod had been stripped from the playing field, with others carrying home in triumph an estimated 300 box seats. Still others knocked part of the right and left field lower fences loose.

Detroit police, with scores of their number on hand at the ball park, posted two officers atop home plate and they repulsed a few fans who had designs on digging it up. The fans then tried to dig up a pitchers' warmup rubber but found it was in too deep.

"These people were not mean . . . they were just out for a good time and a long awaited celebration,' a Tiger spokesman said.

Police would make no estimate of the number of Tiger fans who milled about on streets, stopping traffic and chanting "Go, Go, Tigers, Go, Go" in unison as they climbed atop car roofs, trucks or any other vantage point.

Eleven persons were arrested for minor incidents and one Detroit policeman, patrolman John Galagher, 25, suffered a cut lip and damaged teeth while defending the steps of the Tiger dugout from would-be intruders.

All was peace and brotherly love in the Tiger dressing room as thoughts turned occasionally to the upcoming World Series and the St. Louis Cardinals. Tiger manager Smith and his Tuesday night winning pitcher Joe Sparma, who had a minor tiff during the regular season, took turns saying nice things about each other.

The Tigers did little to ease that fever as they picked Wednesday to announce how millions of Detroit fans can apply by mail for about 20,000 tickets a game that would be sold on a random selection from mailbags.

DUNK THAT TIGER . . . Mayo Smith is tossed into a whirlpool bath by pitcher Mickey Lolich, left, after pennant-clinching victory Tuesday night.

WASHBURN NO-HITS SF

...Second Straight Gem At Candlestick Park

By Associated Press

Ray Washburn of the St. Louis Cardinals pitched a no-hitter Wednesday, stifling the San Francisco Giants 2-0 and helped write major league history with the second masterpiece in as many days at San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

Gaylord Perry of the Giants had no-hit the Cardinals less than 24 hours earlier at Candlestick and it was the first time two no-hitters were pitched in successive games in one ball-park.

He was in complete control and pitched his way out of his only jam in the seventh inning by getting Jim Hart on a bouncer and striking out Dick Dietz.

Washburn, whose 13-7 record suffers somewhat by comparison with Bob Gibson and Nelson Briles, aces of the pennant-winning Cardinals' staff, had the Giants beating the ball into the ground. Only Hal Lanier, who flied to Lou Brock opening the sixth inning, got the ball into the outfield until the ninth.

He walked Willie Mays in the first with two out but retired Willie McCovey on a grounder. In the second, Dietz walked and was erased on an inning-ending double play.

Then Washburn sailed through the Giants' batting order, retiring 12 straight batters until Ron Hunt walked to open the Giants' seventh.

Washburn was locked in a scoreless duel with Bob Bolin until the seventh when the Cards got him the only run he needed.

In the eighth, St. Louis scored again. Dick Schofield opened with a double, went to third on Washburn's sacrifice and scored when Curt Flood beat out an infield single.

It was the fifth no-hitter this season and the third in the National League. The others were pitched by Tom Phoebus of Baltimore, Catfish Hunter of Oakland, who hurled a perfect game, George Culver of Cincinnati, and, of course, Perry.

The only other time two no-hitters were pitched on successive days in the same ball park was in 1917 when the St. Louis Browns did it against the Chicago White Sox. But it was over a span of three games.

Ernest Koob no-hit the White Sox 1-0 on May 5 and then Robert Groom repeated the feat, winning 3-0 in the second game of a May 6 doubleheader.

Jim Fregosi tripled home two first-inning runs, then got California an insurance run with some daring base running in the seventh, leading the Angels to a 4-3 victory over Minnesota and a split in a doubleheader.

The Twins took the opener 4-3

The Boston Red Sox, held hitless for six innings by Roger Nelson, erupted for three runs in the seventh and defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-0.

Phil Niekro pitched a three-hitter and Hank and Tommie Aaron backed him up with run-scoring doubles as Atlanta blanked the Houston Astros 2-0.

Jim Hickman smacked a tie-breaking single in the eighth and Adolfo Phillips followed with a homer as the Chicago Cubs spoiled New York Mets rookie Jerry Koosman's bid for his 19th victory, 7-2.

Washburn Had Deadly Curve

. . . HISTORY MADE

San Francisco (AP) — His curve ball deadly, his sinker wild, big Ray Washburn pitched a 2-0 no-hitter for the St. Louis Cardinals over the San Francisco Giants Wednesday and made major-league pitching history.

It was the first time two no-hitters have been hurled in two consecutive games in the majors. And Gaylord Perry, who pitched the 1-0 no-hitter Tuesday night against the Cards, hurried down to the Redbird dressing room to congratulate Washburn.

"It was my first no hitter since high school," confided the 30-year-old Washburn who was just two years old when a Card pitcher last turned the trick — Lon Warneke against the Cincinnati Reds back in 1940.

"This was probably my best game ever," the Kirkland, Wash., right-hander said. "I got around to thinking about a no-hitter in the sixth. By then, the boys were saying 'Let's get some more hits, or let's get some more runs.' But nobody said anything about a no-hitter.

"Yes I did walk five. And I got up to the full count several times. That probably was from not wanting to give in on a no-hitter.

"You can't make mistakes when you have fellows like Willie Mays and Willie McCovey coming up. But after I got Ron Hunt out in the ninth, I felt like I was in, even against Mays and McCovey."

RAY WASHBURN

"As a result, he got behind an awful lot of hitters. What saved him was his breaking ball.

"Ray has a sinker which he has to keep down. But when he tended to get wild today, he got it up and that's dangerous in a park where guys like Mays and McCovey can hit it out."

"I've waited 16 years for this and what a way for me to go out," exclaimed Card outfielder Roger Maris who is retiring after the World Series against the Detroit Tigers.

Bill Muffett, the Cards' pitching coach, said: "It couldn't happen to a nicer guy. Ray has had some tough luck. He's pitched three real good games in which he didn't get the decision.

"He threw 138 pitches today. His curve was the big thing for him. It kept the hitters off balance."

"I imagine it will be more exciting later on," Washburn said. "It was a fine day to pitch. The wind wasn't strong. I felt real good going into the ninth.

"I had control of my breaking pitches when I was behind the batters. My slow curve was working. If you have good motion and can keep it away from the hitters, it's a very effective pitch."

First baseman Orlando Cepeda said maybe Washburn felt confident, but there was plenty of tension going into those last innings for everybody else, adding:

"You keep thinking just one boo boo and you've messed up the whole thing."

—HUSKER DEPTH SHOWS—

Sigler, Green New Nebraska Starters

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Eidtor

Two new starters will be in the Nebraska offensive backfield Saturday when the Huskers entertain Utah at Memorial Stadium.

Sigler replaces Frank Patrick and Green moves in ahead of Joe Orduna to join Dick Davis at fullback and Mick Ziegler at flanker in the backfield.

The line will be the same as a week ago with Jim McFarland and Tom Penney at ends, Glenn Patterson and Ed Hansen at tackles, Joe Armstrong and Mel Brichacek at guards and Joe Buda at center.

But this doesn't mean that Orduna, Larry Frost, Paul Topliff and others won't see plenty of action, Devaney indicated.

"We're going to try to use a lot of people as long as they play good ball," he said. "We hope we can continue to substitute without losing much effectiveness.

"Last week we were able to do this. We even went to the third guy such as in the case of Don McGhee."

While the Huskers had trouble running wide against Wyoming last week, Devaney said he was not discouraged about his squad's outside potential.

"It wasn't any failure of our guys to be able to run wide," he said. "It was just tough to run wide against the defense Wyoming used.

ERNIE SIGLER

"They did somewhat the same thing to LSU in the second half of the Sugar Bowl game.

"I think we can still run outside, but not against that kind of defense and if we face that kind of defense we'll just go up the middle.

"We're not going to lose sleep over that because I think we also can be effective going up the middle."

Rockets, Knights Clash Friday

BY VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The first week of the prep school football season saw the emergence of several potential powerhouse teams, a so-so performance from others who were expected to be at the top of the ratings and a disappointing start for several who had high hopes for a better year.

This week features the first intra-city battle, a head-on meeting between the two most highly publicized Class A teams and a host of other traditional battles that should help clarify the picture before the first ratings appear Monday.

Lincoln Northeast and Southeast kick off the Capital City games when they meet at Seacrest Field Friday night.

Fremont, which finally came to life after trailing Northeast, 13-0 to go on to a 26-13 win, tangles with Grand Island in the game of the week

The Third City eleven, expected to make a challenge for Class A supremacy, romped to a 30-7 triumph over Kearney in its season opener.

We would love to settle for the outcome of the nine games picked in connection with this article last week. Seven right, one wrong with one ending in a tie.

But unfortunately we have to take into account the other 154 "picks" that appeared on the inside pages.

Of the 11-man games, 76 right, 46 wrong for a .623 average. Eight-man, 24 right, 17 wrong, for .585, with an overall 100 right and 63 wrong and a final .613 mark.

Northeast at Southeast (Seacrest Field, Friday) — Though the Southeast defense showed well against North Platte, the offense has not as yet jelled. The hard-running all-city fullback Maury Damkroger will spell the difference.

Hastings at Lincoln East (Seacrest Field, Saturday)—The Tigers, after tying Lincoln High, look too tough. East, much improved, won't suffer another season-long blanking, but this probably won't be the time to break the drouth.

Pius X at O. Bishop Ryan — Vince Aldrich's crew found themselves in a last minute comeback win over Beatrice and may be tough to handle.

Omaha Tech at O. Central — Both victors in first week games. Winner will be the Metro favorite. We'll take Tech.

Fremont at Grand Island — After the Northeast experience, Fremont has learned it can't win on press clippings alone. A total game effort will give the Tigers another victory.

Lincoln Pius X Drops To Class 'B'; Papillion Newest Class 'A' Member

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln's Pius X High School is now Class B.

That was the big news as classification shifts involving the Thunderbolts and 32 other schools for the 1968-69 athletic year were announced by the Nebraska School Activities Association.

The 32 schools with the largest boy enrollment in the state are grouped in Class A, the next 64 in Class B. Then come 128 schools in Class C, while the remainder are classified Class D.

This year 158 schools fall in the final category, nine less than a year ago, as Talmage, Brock, Ashton, Western, Holmesville, Uehling, Farwell, Upland and Merriman either consolidated or closed their doors.

Pius X, 28th among the 32 Class A schools last season, dropped from a boy enrollment of 342 to 292, winding up 37th this fall. The 'Bolts are thus fifth down on the Class B list.

The big get bigger, but the small can't get much smaller. Omaha Benson takes over as the school with the greatest number of boys enrolled, 1,681, replacing Omaha South, who had 1,657 to lead the list last fall.

Papillion, growing from 291 to a total of 318 boys this year, replaces Pius X in Class A.

A new school, Omaha Gross, takes over the Kearney West spot in Class C.

Class C power Columbus Scotus, along with Ravenna, Tri-County, and Wymore all move up to Class B, while Norfolk Catholic, Elkhorn Valley, Norris and O'Neill go back a notch.

Eleven schools trade spots from Classes C and D. Going up to C is Adams, last year's Class D state basketball champion, along with Lawrence, Palmyra, Maywood, Sutherland, Fort Calhoun, Hartington, Wilcox, Cook, Omaha Dominican and Adams Central.

Those losing enrollment and becoming Class D this year include Sterling, Decatur, Central City Nebraska Christian, Meridian, Axtel, Randolph St. Francis, Springview, Sumner, Wynot, Hershey and Chappell.

Granatelli Asks Reduction Delay

Indianapolis, Ind. (AP) — Race car owner Andy Granatelli has urged U.S. Auto Club trustees to relent at a meeting here Friday and delay reductions ordered in engine sizes for next season.

Granatelli, president of the STP Corp. and promoter of turbine racers the last two years, said if July rules changes stand he not only can't race turbines but also will drop plans to install Novi engines in Lotus chassis.

The Novis are supercharged V-8 engines with conventional pistons. With various modification they have raced in the Indianapolis 500 since 1941, often setting track records but never winning the race.

Raider, Pat Defenses, SD Attack Best

New York (AP) — When the Miami Dolphins play the Oakland Radiers Saturday night, they'll be facing a pass defense that has held the opposition to minus yardage.

According to American Football League statistics released Wednesday, the Raiders are the only team to have a minus figure on their record. In their only game, the Raiders held the Buffalo Bills to minus 19 yards.

That enabled Oakland to tie Boston for the team lead in defensive yardage allowed. Each has given up 191 yards over-all, the Patriots being the stingiest club against rushing by holding the Bills to 76 yards in their only game.

Coach Reports OU Appearing Quicker

Norman, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma football coach Chuck Fairbanks said the Sooners seemed to be regaining their quickness in Tuesday's short practice.

Oklahoma players concentrated principally on specialties, such as kicking and run-backs, working out last minute details for Saturday's opening game against Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — "Mentally we're ready to play a game but technically we're not," Coach Dan Devine said Wednesday after Missouri's practice for Saturday's opening football game with Kentucky.

"There were missed blocks, fumbles on exchanges and players jumping offside on automatic calls," Devine added. "These things shouldn't happen in a Wednesday practice before a game."

Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Colorado football fortunes improved Wednesday with the word that junior tailback Steve Engel is ready to play against Oregon in the season opener Saturday in Boulder.

On the negative side, defensive end Dave Bartelt is a question mark for the Oregon contest with a dislocated shoulder suffered Tuesday. The 225-pound senior's loss is a heavy blow to the already decimated Buff defense.

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma State University Cowboys went through a non-contact drill Wednesday as they reviewed assignments and polished their game in preparation for Saturday night's football opener against Arkansas.

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas football team worked out in sweat clothes Wednesday and Coach Pepper Rodgers named two definite starters against Illinois Saturday. They are fullback Mike Reeves and safety Tom Anderson. Reeves had been alternating in practice with John Riggins, and Anderson with Skip James, both sophomores.

Iowa State

Olympians Ready To Give All

New York (AP) — Now that the threat of a boycott by black athletes apparently has evaporated, the United States will field its largest and best Olympic team at Mexico City, says the head of the American team.

"The boycott situation was a sticky thing for a while," said Everett "Eppy" Barnes, the acting executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, Wednesday, "but it seems to be resolved now.

"I was at the track trials at South Lake Tahoe in California and I was invited to attend the meetings of the athletes," Barnes said. "They appeared to be happy, in fine shape and determined to make the greatest showing ever at Mexico City.

"The trials and training for the various teams in high altitude camps was very expensive but it has paid off. The athletes are fit and they are now confident they will be able to perform confidently in Mexico City's high altitude.

"The competition at the Little Olympics in Mexico City and our training sites has shown that it will be difficult for athletes to double up in events because of the slow recovery rate.

"John Carlos said at Mexico City that he didn't think any of the sprinters would be able to double up. He has been proved right. In men's track only George Young, who made the team in the 3,000-meter steeplechase and the marathon, will double up. In his case, the events are widely spaced."

Barnes said however that many of the swimmers will be in more than one event but just how many would be determined by the training now going on at the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

Debbie Meyer, the 16-year-old women's world record holder in the 200, 400 and 800 meters freestyle, has qualified for all three events while Mark Spitz, the versatile 18-year-old phenom from Santa Clara, Calif., is eligible for six men's events including, three relays.

"The high altitude training has benefitted the coaches as well as the athletes," said Barnes. "It was costly because in many cases we had 10 athletes in one event instead of the usual three.

"As a result our budget for the Games has gone up from $3 million to $4 million. We have raised the $3 million and we hope to get the other million by public subscription before we leave for the Games."

Barnes said the United States will send 402 athletes and have a total personnel of 478 for the Oct. 12-27 world sports spectacle.

Some of the athletes already are in Mexico City but the bulk of the squad will arrive there in chartered planes, Oct. 3, 6 and 8.

Villanova Track Coach Protests Patrick Omission

Philadelphia (AP) — Villanova University track coach Jim "Jumbo" Elliott said Wednesday he is filing a formal protest with the U.S. Track and Field Committee over the exclusion of miler Dave Patrick from the U.S. Olympic team.

Patrick finished fourth over the weekend in the 1,500 meters race at the final U.S. Olympic track and field trials at South Lake Tahoe, Calif. Only the first three finishers were given Olympic berths.

But, said Elliott, "The men's track and field committee was irrevocably committed to placing on the team the winner of the Los Angeles trials by statements made to the press, athletes and coaches at that time."

NU Cagers Have Three TV Dates

Kansas City, Mo. — Nebraska's basketball team will be featured in three of 10 Big Eight cage contests to be televised Saturday afternoons this winter over an eight-state, 35-station regional network.

Game time has been set for 2 p.m. with a halftime program spotlighting university talent and features and each contest will be followed by a "coaches corner."

The Huskers will open the series Jan. 4 in a home game against Kansas. They will be featured again Jan. 25 at Iowa State and in the last game on March 8 at Oklahoma.

The schedule:

Jan. 4—Kansas at Nebraska; Jan. 11—Oklahoma at Kansas State; Jan. 18—Iowa State at Missouri; Jan. 25—Nebraska at Iowa State; Feb. 1—Kansas State at Oklahoma State; Feb. 8—Oklahoma State at Missouri; Feb. 15—Missouri at Kansas; Feb. 22—Colorado at Iowa State; March 1—Kansas at Colorado; March 6—Nebraska at Oklahoma.

Jay Silvester Throws Discus 224 Ft., 5 In.

Silvester, a Utah State graduate from Smithfield, Utah, was competing in a pre-Olympic warmup in Mackay Stadium at the University of Nevada with a group of athletes who have been training at Echo Summit at South Lake Tahoe.

His pending record of 218-4 was set May 26 at the California Relays at Modesto.

Husker Harriers Opening Oct. 12

Only two veterans are returning from last year's squad. They are Mel Campbell, a junior letterman, and Bob Tupper, also a junior.

Oct. 12—Kansas State at Lincoln Oct. 19—Missouri at Lincoln; Oct. 26—Colorado at Boulder; Nov. 2—Iowa State at Ames; Nov. 9—Big 8 conference meet at Lawrence, Kan.

Notre Dame At Peak For Oklahoma Game

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame polished defense and offense in the rain Wednesday for the season's football opener with Oklahoma, and coach Ara Parseghian said the Irish "were at their peak.

"I think we are gaining the momentum we have been looking for despite some hampering injuries," he said. "The team has reached its peak for Saturday's game."

In case of rain, the entire schedule will be noved back one day.

Lewis, Kristoff Make Olympic Mat Team

Alamosa, Colo. (AP) — Jess Lewis of Oregon State and Larry Kristoff of Southern Illinois University became the first two members of the U.S. Olympic wrestling team with victories at the high-altitude training camp Wednesday night.

Lewis nipped Hank Schenk, an Army wrestler from Oregon State, in the 213½ pound division. Kristoff won the heavyweight class with a victory over another soldier, Dale Stearns.

Talks Under Way For Clay Fight

Seattle, Wash. (AP) — Negotiations are under way for an October fight between Seattle's Bill Schellhas and deposed world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, the Seattle Times reported Wednesday.

If the negotiations are successful, the Times said, the fight will take place within four to six weeks on the Colville Indian reservation at Omak, Wash.

The bout reportedly would be held outdoors and probably would be billed for 15 rounds and for the world championship.

Defending Leaders Start Fast In NFL

New York (AP) — Leroy Kelly is off and running in defense of his National Football League rushing title with 107 yards in Cleveland's opening game with New Orleans.

LEROY KELLY

with 105 yards and Clint Jones, a second year man with the Minnesota Vikings, is the third member of the club with 101 yards.

Sonny Jurgensen of Washington also is off and flying in defense of the passing crown with an opening day total of 276 yards and four touchdowns against the Chicago Bears.

Pat Richter, whose job was in doubt at Washington when camp opened, is tied with Bill Brown of Minnesota for the scoring lead with three touchdowns and 18 points.

Nixon Sides With Grape Growers In California

Fresno, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon stepped into California's heated farm labor controversy Wednesday, saying workers shouldn't cripple "an industry already in trouble." He was loudly heckled as he began to speak.

About 50 of a crowd of 5,500 at a rally, demonstrating in support of an AFL-CIO drive to organize farm workers, chanted "we want justice" and clapped in unison. Nixon ignored them.

The majority applauded and cheered at intervals during the Republican presidential candidate's talk in this California agricultural heartland. Nixon made it clear he supports the growers.

First Hecklers

Police took away the protesters' signs and they marched out of the hall, still chanting and clapping. Nixon's farm labor remarks came after they left.

It was the first time in his presidential campaign Nixon had been heckled during an address.

Feelings have run high in California's Central Valley over efforts of Cesar Chavez and his Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee to win recognition from growers of table grapes. The union, as a weapon, is urging a nationwide boycott of California grapes.

The area, solidly gave strong support to Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan in the 1966 governorship race.

"It is unfair to damn a whole great industry and to boycott a whole grape industry because of the excesses of a few," Nixon said. "I'm against the grape boycott."

He ate a couple of grapes from a case given him before he spoke and said, "I will continue to eat California grapes and drink the product of these grapes whenevery I can."

Panel Discussion

But the former vice president pledged to "improve the life of the migratory worker in America today and to offer new hope to him and his family tomorrow."

Earlier, in a panel discussion with farmers, Nixon said farm workers don't make enough money and have poor housing. Growers, he said, are hit by inflation, export difficulties and marketing problems.

Of the boycott, he said: "You do not help the worker by crippling an industry that is already in difficulty. You must not confuse industrial labor problems with agricultural labor problems as my opponent apparently does."

Energy Enterprises Apparent Low Bidder

The low bid was $8,200, followed by O.K. Electric, $9,260, ABC Electric, $9,419 and Commonwealth Electric, $12,910.

$140,000 In Cash Found In Home Of Elderly Couple

Parsons, Kan. (AP) — Cash found in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Wilson here totaled almost $140,000, police reported Wednesday after a complete count of it

The money was taken to a Parsons savings and loan association after its discovery by officers Monday. The first estimate of the total was $120,000.

Chief of Police Frank Washburn said he had discussed with Wilson's brother, Joe Wilson of nearby Altamont, the appointment of an administrator or conservator to handle the affairs of the aged couple.

Police began a search for the money after receiving a report of an altercation at the home and the display of $7,000 in cash by Mrs. Wilson. They found money hidden in various places of the two-story home which also has a full basement.

Washburn described the home as being crammed with furniture, boxes and other items.

V. J. Wilson is 82, his wife several years younger.

Police said Wilson told them he was reluctant to keep his money in a financial institution and chose instead to hide it about the home. He has extensive real estate holdings in the area.

Delegation Welcomed

Tokyo (AP) — The New China News Agency reported a delegation arriving from southern Yemen for a friendship visit at the invitation of Peking was welcomed by Vice Premier Chen Yi and more than 1,000 people.

Panel Agrees On Funding

Washington (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee settled Wednesday on a $625 million appropriation for the administration's model cities program.

The amount compares with the $1 billion which President Johnson sought for the year ending next June 30, and which was approved by the Senate, and the $500 million voted by the House.

In another compromise, the conferees accepted $750 million for the urban renewal program. This is $550 million less than Johnson requested. The Senate voted the full $1.3 billion, the House nothing.

On rent subsidies, the conferees allowed $30 million in new contract authority, or $35 million less than Johnson asked.

Builders Begin Construction Of Huge Jetport In Florida

Miami, Fla. (AP) — A dynamite blast in the cypress swamplands of the Florida Everglades signaled Wednesday the start of construction of a jetport its builders expect to become the mightiest of the supersonic age of air travel.

Embracing 38 square miles of still-primitive hunting grounds of the Miccosukee tribe of Seminole Indians, the port is so big that the Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington international airports and New York's Kennedy all could be fitted into it. And there would be plenty of room left over for Washington Dulles.

Two 6-mile-long runways are planned, capable of handling airliners of the future, and its designers even are planning forward to the era of space travel.

Indians Present

"We've got plenty of room out there for gantries," said Alan C. Stewart, director of the Dade County Port Authority which launched the visionary project.

Among the county, state and federal officials who gathered in the lonely wilds for the ground-breaking ceremony 45 miles west of Miami were Seminoles dressed in tribal costumes, including Chief Buffalo Tiger of the Miccosukees.

"My people will lose a hunting ground," Buffalo Tiger said, "but they will benefit from this great development."

200,000 Flights

The immediate goal is construction of two 10,500-foot runways which will handle nearly 200,000 training and transitional flights of big jets in and out of Miami International Airport each year.

This will reduce noise and air space congestion at Miami International and clear the way for the 386-passenger supersonic transports coming along soon, which Miami has the runways to handle.

"There are bigger monsters coming," Stewart said, "but no matter how big they get, we've got space for them.

"They can't build airports all over the country to handle the giants of the future. They'll have to locate them in strategic cities around the world — Hong Kong, Miami, Paris — and the big planes of today will become the feeder lines of tomorrow operating out of these ports."

Protesters Plan To Picket 3 Candidates

Chicago (UPI) — Leaders of the demonstrators who battled Chicago police during the Democratic National Convention said Wednesday they will picket every rally of the three major presidential candidates from now until election day.

Their spokesman, Rennie Davis, said, "We intend to confront the three candidates everywhere they speak by carrying the spirit of Chicago into every corner of the country."

He defined "the spirit of Chicago" as "a spirit of defiance and resistance against a government that continues to ignore the popular sentiment against the war."

Davis and Hayden were the project directors for the National Mobilization Committee, which played the lead role in bringing thousands of antiwar demonstrators to Chicago during convention week. Hoffman is the bushy-headed head of the Youth International Party (Yippies) which tried to hold a "festival of life" in city parks during the convention.

David said the dissidents would also press for a "vote strike" against candidates Hubert H. Humphrey, Richard M. Nixon and George C. Wallace.

Dr. Meierhenry Going To Paris

Dr. Wesley Meierhenry, chairman of the department of adult and continuing education at the University of Nebraska, is one of four educators invited to speak at an international meeting on Teaching and Learning Methods in University Institutions at Paris, France, beginning Monday.

He was invited to participate in the meeting by the Joint UNESCO-International Association of Universities Research Programme. Dr. Meierhenry will discuss possibilities of an optimum combination and complementary functioning between technological and traditional methods of learning and teaching.

Nixon Said Foe Of Aid Programs

Washington (AP) — Richard M. Nixon would sharply cut back social education and medicare programs if he became president, the director of Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign predicted Wednesday.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and the Humphrey campaign, said he thinks the Republican nominee would stymie progress in programs built up under New Frontier and Great Society auspices.

Hamilton Says He Will Push Major Issues

Win, lose, or draw, the New Party congressional candidate, Bruce Hamilton, said he would still campaign and speak on what he considers major issues until the victor in the November 5 election takes a stand on them.

Speaking to an estimated crowd of 100 students on the University of Nebraska campus Wednesday night, Hamilton said he will base his campaign on three major issues that he contends the two other candidates (Robert Denney and Clair Callan) have ignored up to the present time.

These issues, he said, are:

—A definite stand on the Vietnam war. Hamilton said he believes the United States should start a major withdrawal immediately since the war is "senseless, and is a major drain on America's youth and finances."

—Immediate solutions should be considered for the poverty in certain sections of the United States.

Hamilton said the New Party will have to work hard in the days before the election to wipe out the public image the party seems to have obtained of "far out radicals and unwashed, unshaven hippies who demonstrate and throw bricks."

$1.3 Million For Offutt Included In Construction Bill

Washington (AP) — Congress approved and sent to the White House Wednesday a compromise bill appropriating $1.75 billion for military construction in the current fiscal year.

The amount includes $1,369,000 for Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska.

Cows Sell Steady To Strong

Omaha (AP) — Cows were steady to strong, instances 25 cents higher Wednesday while bulls were unchanged. Feeder cattle made up a strong 10% of the fresh arrivals, but these were primarily consigned to the Friday feeder auction.

Two loads of high-choice and prime 1,211-1,275 lb. steers topped at $28.75-29, other toppy beeves noted $28 and up. The $28 ticket was for a load scaling around 1,043 lbs.

Six loads of high-choice and prime heifers drew $27-27.10 and a load 1,075 lbs. drew $27.25.

Butcher hogs were steady to mostly 25 cents lower as receipts expanded to around 9,000. Bulk of the butchers sold to $20.25 with many sales at nickel and dime levels from 19.75 and up. Several well sorted consignments collected $20.35-20.50 to rate outside the bulk.

Slaughter lambs were strong to mostly 25 cents higher as pelt conditions played an active part in the bidding. Dry pelts on choice to prime lambs helped capture tickets ranging to $27.75 while plainer lambs and those with damp or wet fleeces ranged down to around $25.

Ewes were quoted to $6.50.

The entire trade was backgrounded by a slow, dull meat market. Steer, heifer and cow beef moved steady to instances 50c lower, pork cuts were steady to as much as $2 lower and lamb carcasses were unreported.

Fred Schneider To Head Gering Equipment Firm

Gering (AP) — Officials of the Lockwood-Seilon Corp. here Wednesday announced formation of the firm as a wholly owned subsidiary of the Seilon Corporation of Toledo, Ohio.

John Hickman, president of the parent firm, announced the appointment of Fred W. Schneider, 39, as president of the Gering operation.

Lockwood's Gering plant manufactures feild equipment for sugar beets, onions and potato crops.

Lockwood currently is building a new $1.5 million facility in the Gering Industrial Tract. It is slated for completion late this year.

Wheat Futures Prices Drop To Seasonal Lows

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures prices set seasonal lows again on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday, touching under 1.15 in the September contract for the first time since the 1940-41 crop year.

Other grain futures and soybeans also closed on a generally low tone.

All September contracts in commodities were unusually active during the session as traders and firms with interests in futures sought to even up positions before trade in the contract came to an end at noon Thursday.

Corn futures lacked any sustaining drive and closed mostly lower. Oats and rye trade was slow and prices generally weak.

At the close of trade, wheat was ½ to 1 cent a bushel lower, September 1.14⅝; corn was ¾ to 1⅛ higher, September 1.06⅝; oats were ⅝ to 1 cent lower, September 60⅜ cents; rye was ½ lower to ⅜ higher, September 1.12⅜; and soybeans were ¼ lower to 1⅜ higher, September 2.63⅜.

Whale Survives

Cape Town, South Africa (AP) —A 30-foot whale stranded by a receding tide on the beach at nearby Fish Hoek survived with the help of a beach inspector who covered the huge sea mammal with sacks and hosed it down to prevent overheating. On the subsequent rising tide the whale slipped back to sea to rejoin two companions that had waited all day outside the breakers.

Wildly Enthusiastic Crowd Roars Approval Of Wallace

Kansas City (AP) — A wildly enthusiastic crowd, estimated by police at more than 10,000, roared approval Wednesday night as George C. Wallace called for election of an administration more responsive to ordinary citizens.

Wallace's 40-minute talk in the American Royal exhibition hall was interrupted repeatedly by loud applause as the third party candidate attacked both major political parties.

Twice the former Alabama governor halted his speech while police hustled demonstrators out of the building.

A few minutes later police rushed the demonstrators out of the halls they again began heckling the speaker. The dissenters were pelted by wadded paper cups thrown by Wallace supporters.

The enthusiastic crowd cheered and blew horns frequently during Wallace's talk. He advocated a return of law and order and reduced foreign aid, opposed gun control, condemned the new fair housing law, and criticized the U.S. Supreme Court.

All 8,000 seats in the hall were filled well before Wallace began speaking, and cars were lined up for several blocks outside.

State Commissioner Tries To Settle New York Strike

New York (AP)— James E. Allen Jr., the state education commissioner, tried again Wednesday to try to settle the dispute which has resulted in a citywide teachers' strike for six of the first eight days of the fall term.

He did not sound hopeful, however, as he entered a meeting with members of the Board of Education.

"A lot of goodwill will have to be shown on the part of all concerned if this is to be resolved," he said.

The state commissioner stepped into the dispute last week and Sunday recommended the temporary suspension of a controversial, community-run governing board in Brooklyn, and the transfer, also temporary, of 10 teachers whose ouster by the local group touched off a teachers' strike. All 10 teachers are white. Most of the members of the local board are Negro.

Allen's intervention came as Roman Catholic leaders opened parochial schools to public school students.

"We are completely sympathetic with the parents and children and will do everything to help," said Msgr. Raymond Rigney, school superintendent for the New York archdiocese.

Leader Met

Washington (AP) —President Johnson met the prime minister of Swaziland, received the credentials of Swaziland's first ambassador to the United States and complimented the African country on its new independence.

Salazar Said Fighting Hard For Survival

Lisbon (AP) — Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar fought stroke-induced coma, hemorrhage and paralysis for the third straight day Wednesday. An American specialist said the 79-year-old leader's "indomitable spirit" might carry him to survival.

Aneurosurgeon, Dr. Houston Merritt of New York flown in urgently by the Portuguese for consultations, said in a statement:

A political pot began to simmer with rumors that a rightwing law professor, Marcello Caetano, 62, was the front runner to succeed Salazar, who has ruled Portugal and its overseas empire for 35 years.

Johnson To Give Medal Of Honor To Five Soldiers

Washington (AP) — President Johnson will bestow the nation's highest military award — the Medal of Honor — on five Army enlisted men at a special White House ceremony Thursday morning.

The five GIs, a White House announcement said, "will be decorated for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action at the risk of their lives above and beyond the call of duty in Vietnam."

Named for the awards were S.Sgt. Delbert Owen Jennings, 32, Stockton, Calif.; Sgt. Leonard Bert Keller, 21, Rockford, Ill.; Spec. 4 Raymond R. Wright, 22, Mineville, N.Y.; 1st Sgt. David Herbert McNerney, 37, Ft. Dix, N.J., and S.Sgt. Kenneth Edward Stumpf, 23, Menasha, Wis.

Journal and Star Want Ads

Your low-cost Want Ad appears daily in the Lincoln Star (Morning) and the Lincoln Journal (Evening) or the Sunday Journal and Star at the following cash rates:

Words	Lines	DAYS 1	4	7	10
— 10	2	.90	2.96	4.06	4.40
11-15	3	1.20	4.20	5.67	6.30
16-20	4	1.52	5.44	7.28	8.00

TRADE FOR A '69 TONIGHT

Do you realize that while your older car may be worth as much as $1000 or even more to us now — the State Inspection Law LB806 could make it valueless by January 1?

This is a startling fact, but did you realize that due to Legislative Bill #LB806 becoming effective January 1, 1969 each automobile registered in Nebraska must pass a state supervised motor vehicle inspection requiring approval of Horns — Mirrors — Windshield wipers — Glass — Tires — Wheels — Rms — Mufflers and exhaust system — Brakes — Steering — Suspension — Wheel alignment — Lamps and lighting — Body and sheet metal. That's a fact!

YOUR OLD CAR IS WORTH MORE TO US NOW THAN AFTER JANUARY 1

That's right, we have dealers from the North and from the West who possible won't be affected by such a law and are willing to pay you a premium for your old car.
